Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Butler College?

Q. I would like to become a butler. Can you tell me if there are any schools in the area giving this type of training? V.K., Long Beach.

A. There are no schools for butlers or any domestic servants listed with the state Division of Readjustment Education, supervising agency for private schools. An ACTION LINE check of numerous trade schools revealed no butler course as such, but many courses in related vocations such as hotel valet. A spokesman for the Krebs School said men taking their Hotel Training course, which includes a course in poise and manners, have in the past been hired as butlers. A list of trade schools featuring hotel and poise courses is on the way to you.

The Dobbins of Antrim

Q. My father in Kansas is working on a genealogy of the John Dobbins family from Antrim, Ireland. He would like some information on Edward Savage Dobbins, who was city manager of Long Beach in 1933. Can ACTION LINE tell us something about him, and perhaps give us the names of some surviving relatives? T.M.R., Long Beach.

A. Edward Dobbins was born in Faribault, Minn., on May 14, 1876. He owned and operated an envelope factory in St. Paul, Minn., then became business manager of the Shattuck Military School in Faribault. He came to Long Beach after serving as a lieutenant colonel in the Army during World War I and was city manager in 1932 and '33. He died in August 1952 at his daughter's home in San Gabriel, and was buried in Maple Lawn Cemetery in Faribault. ACTION LINE contacted the cemetery and found the acting caretaker, Charles Batchelder, to be the grand-nephew of Edward Dobbins. Batchelder suggested your father write to him at 1917 NW Fourth St., Faribault, Minn. 55021, for additional information on the Dobbins family.

Battery Additive

Q. I need help in getting my $48.28 back from the National Dynamics Corp. in New York. They sell a battery additive to prolong the life of batteries. I ordered 36 of these additives to sell. According to the company's offer, if I couldn't sell the additives and returned them within 30 days, I would get my money back. I returned the merchandise but haven't gotten the money. W.C., Paramount.

Action Line

A. The company has no record of having received the returned merchandise, said Joyce Palmer, customer relations supervisor. She explained that if you have some proof of having sent the goods, such as a registered mail stub, and will send her a copy of the proof, she will see that you receive your refund. Write to her at National Dynamics Corp., 220 E. 23rd St., New York, N.Y. ACTION LINE will also send you a copy of the National Better Business Bureau's report on the firm.

Officer and Gentle Man

Q. Several years ago I read about a Col. Dean E. Hess who had founded an orphanage in Korea. Can ACTION LINE tell me how I can contact this kind man and find out what happened to the orphanage? Also, is there a need for outside help for the orphans? J.A., Westminster.

A. Col. Hess is now director of information of Air Force Logistics at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. You can write to him at AFLC, P.O. Box 94, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio 45433. During the Korean War, Col. Hess arranged for 1,051 homeless children to be airlifted from Seoul, South Korea, to Cheju Island when the Communists invaded Seoul. Hess wrote a book, "Battle Hymn," about the children, and the book was later made into a movie. Profits from the book and movie were used to establish an orphanage in Seoul in 1956. The Orphanage Home of Korea now houses 240 children. To find out the needs of the orphanage, Hess suggested you write to Mrs. On Soon Whang, directress, Orphanage Home Of Korea, Central P.O. Box 83, Seoul, South Korea.

Quick Color

Q. Can you tell me where I might find some information on the discovery and development of Polaroid color film? S.H., Long Beach.

A. A spokesman for the Polaroid film producing plant in El Segundo said the picture-in-a-minute film was developed and perfected by Edwin H. Land, president of the Polaroid Corp., Polaroid, which has sold well over five million cameras since 1948, marketed the color film in 1963 and has not made any major changes since in the film itself, the spokesman said. A nine-page history of the Polaroid camera and film is on the way to you with more information on the properties and chemical makeup of the color film. You might also want to check volume 16 of the Encyclopedia of Photography at the Long Beach Public Library, Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard, which includes a short history of the development of Polaroid film.

Action Line

All Go for Moon Voyage

Weather Only Concern for
On-Time Launch

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Engineers solved a problem with contaminated oxygen tanks aboard the Apollo 8 spacecraft and continued the final countdown for this morning's blastoff of three astronauts on man's first journey around the moon.

Only the weather remained questionable for the scheduled 4:51 a.m. PST start of the six-day mission to send astronauts Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders to the moon, around it 10 times on Christmas Eve, and start them back toward earth early Christmas morning.

Technicians said they needed to track the huge moon rocket visibly for the first 2,000 feet of its flight, but there was a threat of low-cloud cover. Conditions were acceptable late Friday night, but weather forecasters said a change in winds led to a touch-and-go situation today.

Hoping for the best, launch crews rolled back the service tower from the combination of the Saturn 5 booster and the Apollo 8 spacecraft and, right on time at 9:51 p.m., began the final countdown leading to blastoff for the moon.

Floodlights played on the gleaming rocket as valves were opened and thousands of gallons of fuel began pouring into Saturn's tanks.

THE three astronauts dined early on steak and went to bed in their moonport quarters. Launch pad engineers purged the contaminated liquid oxygen tanks and eliminated the problem of nitrogen leaking into the oxygen. The moon-bound crew was to be awakened at 2:36 a.m.

"We are go for the Apollo 8 mission," a space agency spokesman reported following repairs to the capsule's liquid oxygen fuel cell tanks.

By mid-afternoon engineers had solved the only major problem in the countdown — minute amounts of nitrogen that had seeped into two spherical oxygen tanks on Apollo 8. The tanks were purged, new systems set up, and refilled.

"Samples taken from oxygen tanks in the Apollo 8 spacecraft show the contents meet launch specifications," a spokesman announced.

Launch Director Rocco Petrone said "right now the prediction is go."

Tracking systems and recovery forces in the Pacific and the Atlantic were ready for the Apollo 8 mission and its Christmas Eve orbit around the moon.

SNOW TIPS PENINSULA

Icy Winds Sweep Southland

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

Watch your clock, because at 11 a.m. today winter officially begins.

And, citizens, if you really need a reminder that winter is here, take Long Beach weather Friday into consideration.

We had rain, icy winds, cloudy skies and the knowledge — if not distant vision — of snow at Palos Verdes Peninsula and in the mountains above 2,500 feet.

Red Blitz Threat to Paris Talks

SAIGON, Saturday (UPI) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu said today his government would break off any talks with the Communists should they attack Saigon and "continue to fight."

In angry tones, Thieu said an attack on the South Vietnamese capital now would show that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong do not want peace.

"If they attack Saigon, if they continue to fight, we will continue to fight instead of continuing to talk without purpose," he said.

Thieu also denied that his government was trying to stall the Paris talks and said that U.S. Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford's declaration that Saigon was dragging its feet was "a complete calumny."

$500,000 RANSOM Payoff Ad: 'Loved One Come Home'

MIAMI (UPI) — The FBI quietly placed a want ad in the Miami Herald Wednesday. It read:

"Loved one— Please come home. We will pay all expenses and meet you anywhere at anytime."

The message, which appeared in the "personals" column of the classified section, was the tipoff to the kidnapers of Barbara Jane Mackle that the family was ready to receive instructions for ransoming their daughter.

In today's editions, the Miami Herald revealed its part in the secret negotiations for the release of the daughter of millionaire land developer Robert F. Mackle and said it is believed a Catholic priest was drafted by the kidnapers to serve as an intermediary with the family.

THE PRIEST is Rev. John Mulcahy, 32, an assistant rector at the Church of the Little Flower in Coral Gables. The Irish-born priest did not know Barbara but made frequent trips to the stately Mackle home in Coral Gables during the grim 80-hour vigil from the time the Emory coed was abducted from an Atlanta motel room until she was reported freed Friday night.

Mulcahy said he couldn't discuss what was said during his visits with the family, but told newsmen on one occasion before Barbara was released, the Mackles "have reason to believe their daughter is alive and unharmed."

The Herald said the FBI asked that the want ad be published without revealing its secret purpose, a signal to the kidnapers.

The newspaper said the series of contacts by the kidnapers with the family began almost immediately af-

Flu Fells Mailmen and Santas

Associated Press

The nationwide flu epidemic — with a list of victims headed by President Johnson — continued to strike people in all walks of life Friday.

The President was reported to be improving, but his doctors want him to stay in the hospital for another day. Johnson entered Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland Wednesday morning.

Nearby, in Walter Reed Army Hospital, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower continued her battle with the illness.

The former first lady may have to miss the Sunday wedding of her grandson, David, to Julie Nixon because of the flu. She and the former president will watch the ceremony via special closed-circuit television.

The flu also may interfere with some Christmas mail. The postmaster in Boston, Ephraim Martin, canceled Thursday's final downtown delivery because so many men were

In Coffin Since Her Abduction

ATLANTA (UPI) — Kidnaped heiress Barbara Jane Mackle was ransomed for $500,000 Friday from her captors who had kept her buried in a coffin-like box 18 inches below the ground for most of the four days she was held prisoner.

The bizarre details of the kidnaping were disclosed in Washington by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover after the girl finally was safely back in the hands of her family.

HOOPER said "Agents located the victim after an extensive search in an isolated, heavily wooded rural area approximately 20 miles northeast of Atlanta."

"She had been buried in a coffin-like box 18 inches underground. The top of the box had been securely fastened with screws and the box contained a small battery unit and a fan and two flexible vent pipes which protruded just above the ground."

"The coffin contained a limited amount of food and water and had a small light which had failed some hours before the victim was located."

Despite the harrowing ordeal, agents who found her said the willowy brunette was "in good condition," Hoover reported.

To the amazement of all, Miss Mackle got on the telephone after her ordeal and told a relative in Miami:

"I'm fine, Uncle Frank."

After the phone call she was quickly escorted to the Mackle family's private airplane for the flight to her home in fashionable Coral Gables, outside Miami.

THE WEATHER Bureau said that at the depth she was buried, the temperature the past two nights would have been "in the 50s."

Miss Mackle, a 20-year-old economics major at Emory University in Atlanta, was abducted about 4 a.m. Tuesday from an Atlanta motel where she and her mother, Jane Mackle, 51, were staying. The mother had come to Atlanta to nurse her daughter through a bout with the flu.

Before dawn Tuesday, Mrs. Mackle reported, a man posing as a detective came knocking on the motel room.

U.S. Jets Bomb Site Inside North Viet

Combined News Service

SAIGON Saturday — U.S. jets bombed a gun position inside North Vietnam after it fired on the American aircraft escorting a photo-reconnaissance plane, U.S. spokesmen said today. In Laos, U.S. bombers were reported to have created a big lake that blocked part of the Ho Chi Minh supply trail. U.S. military spokesmen said the bombing incident occurred after a North Vietnamese antiaircraft battery fired on U.S. Air Force Phantoms flying cover for a photo reconnaissance west of Dong Hoi, about 40 miles north of the DMZ. None of the planes was hit and damage to the Communist gun position could not be determined.

RELEASE MONDAY?

SEOUL, Saturday — The 82 crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo captured by North Korea Jan. 23 could be released Monday if no hitches develop, two Seoul newspapers reported today. Monday would be 11 months to the day since the ship and its crew were captured on grounds the vessel had intruded into the Communist nation's territorial waters. Sources said U.S. and North Korean negotiators reached agreement on release of the crew Thursday. Highly placed South Korean government sources said another meeting would be held today or Sunday to finalize the agreement.

U.N. Urges U.S.-Soviet Missile Talks

UNITED NATIONS — The General Assembly urged the U.S. and the Soviet Union Friday to begin high-level negotiations soon on limiting offensive and defensive missile systems. It was regarded as a prod to the U.S., which has balked at holding such talks because of the invasion of Czechoslovakia. Diplomats generally were agreed that nothing will come of the prodding gesture at least until President-elect Nixon takes office.

Israeli Jets Flush Out Jordan Snipers

JERUSALEM — Israeli jets struck Friday at snipers firing at Israeli troops from positions along the Jordan River cease-fire line. Israeli spokesmen said Jordanian forces started the new Jordan Valley fire-fight near the Yaacov Kibbutz adjacent to the Sea of Galilee by opening up with bazookas and automatic weapons. Israeli jets were used to flush out snipers. Several Israeli soldiers were reported wounded in the exchange.

$173-Million Loan Payment Delayed

LONDON — Britain announced Friday she would postpone an annual repayment of almost $173 million due on loans in 1945 from the U.S. and Canada. This is the fourth time Britain has exercised deferment options under a 1957 agreement. The agreement gave her the right to defer payments of seven annual installments when "the level of its gold and foreign exchange reserves" make it necessary.

Rome Police Repel New Student Attack

ROME — High school students hurled rocks and sticks at charging police Friday in the worst outbreak of street violence in Rome since last summer. Fighting in the heart of Rome erupted when a group of students left a body of 5,000 marchers and attempted to storm a police-guarded school. Some students broke in and called on others to join them. Police threw them back and students responded with a barrage of rocks and sticks. At least one student leader suffered head injuries. About 20 students were taken into custody. The march was preceded by a rally at which militant student leaders called for sit-ins and protest marches to support demands for reform of the education system and an amnesty for students arrested after earlier disturbances.

Pope Warns of Mass Destruction

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul VI warned the world in a Christmas message Friday night modern society has put in danger the very "existence of men on the face of the earth." Speaking over radio and television, the 71-year-old pontiff said man has built a materialistic society which lacks higher ideals and is "deaf to the groans of the poor." The 1,700-word message did not refer specifically to Vietnam, Nigeria, the Middle East or other areas of war and conflict, but warned of the threat of weapons of mass destruction.

NATIONAL

Nixon Taps Yost for Top U.N. Post

NEW YORK — President-elect Nixon Friday named Charles W. Yost, 61, a retired career diplomat, as chief U.S. representative at the U.N. Nixon turned to Yost, who has had wide experience in the Middle East and at the world organization, after negotiations with Sargent Shriver, the present ambassador to France, broke down early this week. But Nixon also announced that Shriver had agreed to remain as the envoy to Paris under the new administration. In choosing Yost, Nixon broke with the tradition of sending a political figure of world stature to the U.N. — a tradition that had put such men as Henry Cabot Lodge, Adlai E. Stevenson and Arthur J. Goldberg in the position. (Shriver comment, page A-6.)

Romney 'Hopeful' at First Meeting

WASHINGTON — Michigan Gov. George W. Romney, designated by President-elect Nixon to involve the private sector in solving national problems, said Friday he hopes it will be "the greatest peace time cooperative effort in American history." The governor, at his first meeting with newsmen since being named as the next secretary of Housing and Urban Development said: "As President Nixon indicated in his campaign, this is probably the greatest untapped resource for solving our problems that we have."

Hardin Plans to Fill Income Gap

WASHINGTON — Dr. Clifford M. Hardin said Friday one of his major concerns as President-elect Nixon's secretary of agriculture will be filling the income gap between farmers and others of the population. And, the chancellor of the University of Nebraska told a news conference, he also will be concerned with hunger problems wherever they exist. But Hardin was unable to outline the differences between the farm policies of the Nixon administration and those of its predecessors.

De Sapio Indicted for Bribery

NEW YORK — Carmine De Sapio was indicted by the federal government Friday as go-between in a $12,500 utility shakedown that involved New York City's former water commissioner, James L. Marcus, now in prison in another bribe case. The grand jury indictment accused De Sapio of meetings in expensive East Side restaurants to set up a deal last year insuring the Consolidated Edison Co. of a permit from Marcus to increase voltage in one of its power lines.

Silverless Half-Dollars Sought

WASHINGTON — The Treasury Department announced Friday it will seek congressional approval to stop putting silver in half-dollars, the only U.S. coins still being produced with any silver content. The halves now being produced are 40 per cent silver. The recommendation for a completely silverless half was made by a substantial majority of the Joint Commission on Coinage, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said.

Nixon Buys 'Little White House'

KEY BISCAYNE — President-elect Nixon has bought his "Little White House," a four-bedroom home on a half-acre lot overlooking Biscayne Bay. Nixon bought the house for $127,000. It is located between the homes of Bebe Rebozo and retiring U.S. Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., both friends of Nixon.

High-Speed Service to Start Jan. 16

WASHINGTON — The nation's first high-speed railroad service will start Jan. 18 with a 110 mph run between Washington and New York that will trim nearly an hour from the normal time, it was announced Friday.

BEAT GENERATION

OKLAHOMA CITY — A 17-year-old Oklahoma City boy took 20 licks with a belt by a male relative in lieu of going to prison for 5 years. The youth, Scott Browning Grandstaff, had pleaded guilty to burglary, but the judge had delayed sentencing. Then Grandstaff was accused again of burglary, and Judge C. C. Harris gave him the choice.

Grandstaff's brother-in-law was a little hesitant in applying the belt at first, but, "after some prodding from the defendant's attorney, he gave him 20 fairly hard licks on the seat of his pants."

"Nobody checked to see if they left marks," said Ladd, "but the way they sounded—they probably did."

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

John Steinbeck, 66, Dies

Combined News Service

Author John Steinbeck, who raised the novel of social protest to new artistic heights and won the Nobel and Pulitzer prizes for literature, died Friday of a heart attack following a long bout with heart disease. He was 66. The world renowned writer whose books and plays had been published in 33 languages, died in his Manhattan apartment with a physician in attendance.

He had had spinal surgery in 1967. He suffered an initial heart attack in July. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in St. James Episcopal Church on Madison Avenue and he will be buried in Salinas, Calif., where he was born on Feb. 27, 1902.

Steinbeck's last major writing project was his report on a visit to Eastern Europe and Vietnam, where his son John was serving in the armed forces, in 1967. He is survived by his third wife, Elaine Scott, former wife of the late actor Zachary Scott, and another son, Tum.

Steinbeck was the sixth American to win the Nobel Prize when he was named in 1962. Other laureates were Sinclair Lewis, Eugene O'Neill, Pearl Buck, William Faulkner and Ernest Hemingway.

It was "The Grapes of Wrath," which tells of the odyssey of poor Oklahoma farm workers, or "Okies," to California, which brought Steinbeck the Pulitzer Prize in 1940.

Steinbeck's story-telling ability was easily adapted to the screen and many distinguished motion pictures were produced from his work, including "Grapes of Wrath." Other movies based on his works were "East of Eden," "Of Mice and Men," "Tortilla Flat," "The Red Pony," and the "Moon is Down."

JOHN STEINBECK Dead at 66

EISENHOWER

Earl Eisenhower, brother of the former president, was buried Friday in Phoenix in a simple ceremony performed by fellow members of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons. Eisenhower, 70, died Wednesday of a heart attack two days after entering St. Joseph's Hospital here suffering from chest pains. The former president, recovering from a series of heart attacks, did not attend the funeral. Two other surviving Eisenhower brothers, Milton of Baltimore and Edgar of Tacoma, Wash., were present.

LONG RUN

The final "Breakfast Club" program was taped Friday in Chicago with a round of sentimental farewells and parting popping of corn. It brought the star, Don McNeill, and the show to an end of a run of 35½ years. The program will be broadcast Dec. 27.

HHH BETTER

Feeling better and his fever gone, Vice President H. Humphrey flew back to Washington from Phoenix Friday. Humphrey was en route to Los Angeles for a speaking engagement when he was stricken.

LAWYERS READY

Criminal lawyer F. Irvin Dymond said Friday "we are ready" to defend Clay L. Shaw, 55, in his trial set Jan. 21 on charges of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy. Dymond, who with brothers Edward and William Wegmann, will handle Shaw's defense, said no further delays will be sought in the case, which began publicly March 1, 1967, with Shaw's arrest in New Orleans by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison.

TAX LIEN

Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, 55, Friday took as his third wife, a 30-year-old former missionary, in a simple ceremony at a Methodist church. The Rev. Robert Hoggard, rector of St. Augustine's Episcopal church, Santa Monica, officiated at Pike's marriage to Miss Diane Kennedy at Willow Glenn Methodist church, in San Jose, the bride's parish. It was the first marriage for Miss Kennedy and the third for Pike.

YANK NAMED

Pope Paul VI has named his top English-language aide as head of the Vatican treasury and bank, it was announced Friday. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Paul Marcinkus, 46, who has been right hand man to Popes John XXIII and Paul VI became the first American ever named to such a high post in the central administration of finances at the headquarters of the Roman Catholic Church.

EX-NAZI GUILTY

Former Nazi SS Elite Guard Maj. Kurt Eimann was sentenced Friday in Hanover to four years in jail for complicity in the killing of 1,400 mentally ill Germans during World War II. The court said Eimann, 69, had participated in the killings in sanatoriums in 1939 and 1940.

An income tax lien for $60,000 was on file Friday against Eldridge Cleaver, the Black Panther leader who is now a fugitive from justice. The tax lien was filed by Internal Revenue Service agent Virgil Harvey Thursday for earnings of $100,000 or more from Cleaver's book "Soul on Ice." A spokesman for the IRS said the lien was filed before the taxes are actually due next April because Cleaver is a fugitive.

BSU Coercion at College Told in Jury Probe

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The president of a State College was held prisoner for three hours, the football coach threatened with a razor and a top administrative vice president kicked by a Negro student, testimony before a grand jury charged Friday.

3 Killed in Area Smashups

An ambulance racing through Carson with red emergency lights flashing and siren screaming smashed into an auto, killing its woman driver in one of three fatal Long Beach area traffic accidents late Friday.

Valerie Thomas, 35, of 1620 W. 254th St., Harbor City, was dead on arrival at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance, after her auto was struck by an ambulance driven by William E. Land, 31, employee of the Schaffer Ambulance Service, of Los Angeles.

The accident occurred at Vermont Avenue and Carson Street after the ambulance entered the intersection against a red light, California Highway Patrol officers said.

Two Orange County residents were killed in separate accidents Friday — one an 18-year-old motorcyclist and the other a 68-year-old widow.

John Anthony Taffallo of 7581 Eighth St., Buena Park, was dead on arrival at Beach Community Hospital, after the motorcycle he was riding rammed into a curb at Ninth Street and Rostrata Avenue near his home.

Mrs. Shake J. Assadoorian of 2232 Lenita Lane, Santa Ana, stepped off a curb in the 1900 block of North Tustin Avenue, into the path of a car driven by John Howard Weeks, 25, of 10383 Woodbury Ave., Garden Grove.

She was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Hospital, Orange. Weeks was not cited, police said.

Poor Grades No Problem at S.F. State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Militant students at San Francisco State College, who surely would have rated an "A" grade for their revolutionary tactics this fall, apparently won't have to worry about poor grades as the result of disrupted classes.

Prof. Leo McClatchy, chairman of the Academic Senate at the tax-supported school, said Thursday the group has voted to permit students to choose "pass" or "fail" grades if they wish in place of regular letter marks.

Under the one-semester-only policy, students who desire will receive a "pass" grade if their work is D-minus or better. If they fail, however, the "F" grade is entered in the records.

"We establish faculty grading policies," the Academic Senate head said. "It will be in effect unless the president overrules it, and I don't anticipate that."

Meanwhile, mediators Ronald Haughton and Samuel Jackson continued meetings with the Academic Senate, acting President S. I. Hayakawa and the Black Student Union.

Hayakawa Friday named two key aides to help him run the school. Dr. Frank D. Dollard, 44, a professor of English at the college, was named executive vice president. Edwin C. Luerr, 35, associate professor of management, was named coordinator of internal affairs.

Twenty eight students, most of them members of the Black Students Union, were indicted by the grand jury on charges ranging from kidnap to assault in connection with the Nov. 4 seizure of the administration building at San Fernando Valley State College.

More than 60 witnesses testified at the seven day hearing of the grand jury which heard testimony that 37 persons, both women and men and including faculty members, administrative staff and office personnel, were held captive for four hours.

The testimony alleged that members of the BSU seized the administration building "with military precision and probably the result of prior planning."

BSU President Archie Chatman was said to have led about 70 students into the physical education building and to have kicked the chair from beneath athletic director Glen Arnett. Another student, Eddie Dancer, was said to have threatened football coach Sam Winingham with a razor.

THE GRAND jury heard testimony that the Negro students formed a circle around Arnett, Winingham, Stanley Charnofsky of the Educational Opportunity Program and athletic assistant Byrne Fernelius and marched them 300 yards to the administration building, prodding them and calling them "whitney" and "pig."

Once at the administration building, they went up to the fifth floor where the office of acting President Dr. Paul Blomgren is located. Other students jammed elevator and used master keys to break into offices where secretaries had tried to hide themselves.

They confronted administrative Vice President Dr. Harold Spencer and, when told Blomgren was not available, Dancer allegedly kicked Spencer. Blomgren appeared a short time later and allegedly was held hostage for three hours.

THE demonstration began with students demanding the ouster of a freshman football coach who had an altercation with a Negro player. There was a brief flareup and allegedly was held Friday on the college campus at Northridge.

It occurred during a meeting of conservative students' groups discussing "the causes of campus violence." During one of the speeches, a member of a student militant group blew a whistle. A scuffle ensued and the student, Herbert Weiss, 21, North Hollywood, was hit by one of the school athletes. He suffered a broken nose and possible concussion.

Police converged on the area but did not enter the campus. Several students were taken into custody by campus security officers.

Water Merger OK'd
Mayor Sam Yorty Friday authorized the Los Angeles city Department of Water and Power to join the $188 million Mojave power project.

Port Commissioner Stop Port Watanabe Resigns Pollution, Firm Told

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

The Vegetable Oil Products Co. in the Wilmington section of the Port of Los Angeles was ordered Friday "to cease and desist" discharging waste water reportedly polluting harbor waters.

The order was issued during a special meeting of the Los Angeles Regional Water Control Board held in Los Angeles.

The resolution adopted by the board allowed the company, a processor of vegetable oil and manufacturer of margarine, until April 2 to comply.

Failure of the company to comply with the order by the deadline could result in a court-issued injunctive action, according to the Richard Harris, senior engineer with the Los Angeles board.

The board was informed the company, located at 401 Canal Ave., has reportedly been discharging objectionable pollutants into the harbor since 1966. The board was advised the company, which has no direct connection to a sewer system, is disposing of its raw sewage by vacuum truck.

The objectionable waste discharge waters currently flowing into the harbor are a salt water coolant, soapy waters, and the drain-off from the plant's floor-scrubbing operations.

New Law Urged to Allow County Attack on Gaming

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

County gambling laws should be rewritten to allow a crackdown on commercialized illegal gambling operations fronting as social clubs, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess said Friday.

Pitchess warned of a proliferation of gambling organizations "under the guise of state-chartered social clubs, veterans clubs and charity clubs" in a letter to county supervisors.

Several are "now functioning in some unincorporated areas of the county, conducting gambling on a 24-hour-a-day basis and virtually immune from police interference," the sheriff said.

The issue will come before the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

Pitchess said the county has no authority to regulate such clubs because they are chartered by the state and do not have to seek local operating licenses.

The sheriff said an attempt to add illegal gambling to the list of subjects covered by the state Red Light Abatement District Act failed at the last legislative session.

However, Pitchess said, the same goal probably could be accomplished by amending an existing county ordinance to permit locations used for illegal gambling to be declared a "public nuisance."

Pitchess said Capt. Sherman Block of the sheriff's vice bureau discussed the amendment with Asst. County Counsel Edward Gaylord and the counsel said it would stand a test of legality.

Investigators said the slain man's wallet had been taken from his pocket, but that the assailant missed a sum on money in Diggs' trouser pocket. No address for the victim has been established.

Sgt. Ed Pia said the man had been dead about an hour when his body was discovered. The investigation of the slaying is continuing, he said.

3 Indicted in Murder of USC Student

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — Three Los Angeles men were indicted for murder Friday by the county grand jury in the stabbing death of a USC freshman outside his fraternity house.

The three men are being held without bond and will probably be arraigned sometime Monday in superior court.

Indicted on one count of murder each were George W. Jordan Jr., 26, and Douglas Lorenzo Turnbeau, 30.

Williams and Jordan were both first taken into custody on other charges before being identified as suspects in the slaying of Brian Gibson Clay, 18.

WELL FIRE BLAZING IN VALLEY

GRANADA HILLS (AP) — Natural gas continued to burn out of control at a well north of here Friday as firemen awaited the arrival of special equipment from Houston, Tex.

A county fire department spokesman said the fire probably would not be contained before Sunday.

Some 85 firemen continued to wet down the area to protect oil and gas storage tanks and heavy brush from the intense heat of the plume of fire reaching as high as 100 feet.

Boots Hanson, an expert on oil well fires from Houston, will lead the attack on the fire after a huge hook arrives from his hometown.

Hanson, dressed in an asbestos suit, will approach the fire behind a metal shield built at the scene of the blaze, the Porter Ranch north of this San Fernando Valley community.

tel door and said he had information concerning an auto accident, hinting Miss Mackle's boyfriend had been involved.

After she let the man into the room, she said, he leveled a shotgun at her, and an accomplice shoved a rag soaked with chloroform in her face. She said her daughter was then ushered from the room still wearing her red and white nightgown.

Hoover said Miss Mackle still had on the nightgown when she was found, along with a sweat-er.

THE FBI chief said the victim's father, Robert Mackle, a friend of President-elect Richard Nixon and a man who has made millions in Florida real estate, arranged for the $500,000 ransom to be left at a remote spot west of Miami shortly before midnight Thursday night.

About the time word of the girl's release leaked out Friday, the FBI issued kidnap warrants for two suspects, escaped convict Gary Steven Krist, 23, alias George Deacon, and Ruth Eismann Schier, a petite 26-year-old blonde who had been dating Krist.

Both the suspects worked at the University of Miami Institute of Marine Science.

In identifying Krist as a suspect, the FBI said he likely was armed and should be considered dangerous.

He escaped from a California reformatory two years ago in a fusillade of bullets that killed his cellmate.

Krist, now 23, was described by Warden Loyd N. Patterson of the Deuel Vocational Institute near Tracy, Calif., as "a young man of very superior intelligence." Before his successful escape, Krist had been a model prisoner.

Dr. John Hurley of the Marine Institute in Miami described Deacon as a "tough, pushy kind of fellow."

"He was always keen to get a job done the way he wanted it done. He seemed keen on his work, but only if things were going as he planned them. Deacon worked as a technician, and in recent weeks he's been involved with equipment we use for dredging," said Hurley.

BY CONTRAST, Miss Eismann was described as a "charming" girl by a secretary who worked at the lab.

Mackle first tried on Thursday to ransom his daughter, but the attempt failed when two Miami policemen, unaware of the effort, blundered into the midst of the attempt and scared off the kidnappers before they could get their money.

Mackle pleaded with the kidnappers to give him a second chance, pointing out he had done "everything you told me to do."

The kidnappers again made contact, and the second attempt to get the ransom into the hands of the kidnappers went off without a hitch.

COLD

en rain, or "snow," to the rest of us folks.

Mountain areas from Angeles Crest to Pacifico Summit registered snowfall, as did many sections of the upper desert in San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

An inch of snow fell on Mt. Baldy, .02 of an inch at Angeles Crest, .05 at Big Tujunga, .25 of an inch at Bear Divide and three inches at Pacifico Summit.

Snow fell and dropping temperatures formed ice on many major highways in mountain areas. Part of the Ridge Route was closed and vision on Cajon Pass was poor due to the weather conditions.

Schools at California City, Mojave and Red Rock reportedly closed due to the snow, giving some 1,200 students an extra day's vacation this year.

Up to six inches fell at Mt. Abel and Mt. Pinos in Los Padres Forest, .10 of an inch fell on Riverside, .12 at El Toro, and five inches at Idyllwild.

Frost warnings were issued late Friday for many Southland areas. Chatsworth was due for 27-degree temperatures. At Pomona weathermen expected the thermometer to drop to 28, Chino was to register 24 degrees and Riverside braced for 27 degrees.

Gusty, northerly winds were slated to continue throughout the weekend with gusts of up to 25 miles per hour, but slight warming trends were expected Sunday.

Defiant Witness at Newton Trial Ordered Freed

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Supreme Court Friday ordered a defiant witness in the Huey Newton murder case released from a six-month sentence for contempt of court.

The court unanimously held Alameda Superior Court Judge Monroe Friedman had no authority to impose the sentence on Eugene McKinney, 26, who refused to testify at the Newton trial on grounds of self-incrimination.

The high court said the contempt charge was a misdemeanor which can only be brought in a lower court. The decision pointedly stopped short of making any decision on whether the conviction in any way violated constitutional rights against self-incrimination.

DRUG DEATH SUSPECT OUT ON $3,125 BAIL

Albert James White, 58, of 112 E. 12th St., owner of the Bamboo Pit restaurant, was released on $3,125 bond Friday following his arrest in the wake of the drug overdose death of a Long Beach man.

White was ordered to return to Long Beach Municipal Court Thursday to answer charges of possession of dangerous drugs and possession of dangerous drugs for sale.

He was arrested late Thursday at the Bamboo Pit, 1036 E. Anaheim St., after an unidentified friend of Gilbert Tate, 19, of 1403 California Ave., victim of the drug overdose at the friend's residence, 1130 Alhambra Court, purchased 18 second capsules at the restaurant with marked money supplied by police.

Jumps From Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A woman identified as Martha Yasuko Kaneoka, 27, of Petaluma, jumped to her death from the Golden Gate Bridge late Friday, the Coast Guard reported.

Gleason made the announcement as the ILA, federal mediators and negotiators for the New York Shipping Assn. ended a final meeting in a futile attempt to halt the strike.

Murphy claimed Ecuador has seized 37 American vessels since 1961, and that the Day Island was the seventh ship taken this year.

PROPAGANDA EXPECTED

U.S. to Meet Viet Cong on Release of Prisoners

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. officials are planning to meet Christmas day with Viet Cong representatives northwest of Saigon to arrange the release of three American prisoners of war, informed sources said Friday.

Despite the political implications of such a meeting, the South Vietnamese government offered no objections. Said a spokesman: "In principle, as a humanitarian event for the Christmas holidays we would not object, but that doesn't mean we recognize the National Liberation Front."

Under the plan as outlined by the Viet Cong's NLF in a clandestine broadcast Thursday, five unnamed U.S. representatives will meet with the NLF officials near Tay Ninh, three miles from the Cambodian border and about 50 miles northwest of Saigon. The sources said the U.S. Embassy and the American Command are at work on plans to send not more than five representatives to the meeting place.

Both U.S. and South Vietnamese officials agree that the NLF will probably claim the meeting with American officials, the first on the soil of South Vietnam, will constitute tacit recognition. The United States and South Vietnam consider the NLF an outlaw organization.

But for humanitarian reasons, U.S. officials feel they cannot turn down such an offer, particularly since the Viet Cong's broadcast hinted other American prisoners may be released if the Tay Ninh meeting is held. The three Americans are believed to be Spec. 4 Thomas N. Jones, Pfc. Donald G. Smith and Spec. 4 James W. Brigham Jr.

As preparations went forward for the meeting, 11 U.S. servicemen held in Cambodia since last July stopped off in Honolulu en route home for joyous reunions with their families. They were seized when their boat wandered into Cambodian waters. They were released Thursday. They left behind in Phnom Penh another freed soldier, a helicopter pilot downed in November. He was injured when his helicopter was shot down and was unable to travel.

The 11 men acknowledged at a news conference at the Bangkok airport that they had written a letter to Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state, regretting the loss of civilian life in Cambodian border villages accidentally bombed by American planes. They said they had no idea whether the letter, written a month ago, had contributed to their sudden release Thursday.

Meanwhile, there was one disappointment for the U.S. Radio Moscow quoted the North Vietnamese as saying last week some captured American pilots would be freed for Christmas. But a report from Vientiane, Laos, said the weekly flight of the International Control Commission arrived Friday night from Hanoi with no Americans aboard.

In the past, in releasing captured pilots, Hanoi has sent them to Vientiane on the commission's plane.

FLU

out sick that the mail could not be sorted.

In Indianapolis, meanwhile, so many Salvation Army Santas were sick with the flu that service clubs have taken over the job of bell ringing at kettles.

Elsewhere throughout the country, medical authorities are trying to immunize as many people as possible against the threat of the disease.

The National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., said Friday morning that deaths from influenza, pneumonia and related diseases had reached epidemic proportions for the second straight week.

The NCDC said there were 703 deaths from pneumonia-influenza during the week ended Dec. 14. This figure was 213 more than normal. These deaths occurred in the 122 cities used by NCDC in compiling weekly reports. The nationwide total would be slightly higher.

In New Jersey, 7,300 doses of vaccine were distributed to nursing homes in eight counties.

A group of senior citizens at a party in Berlin, Conn., mixed fun with flu vaccine as more than 50 of them got free vaccinations.

The Ottawa County, Mich., sheriff closed the county jail to visitors until further notice because of the flu.

And in Chicago, the associate director of the Chamber of Commerce said 400,000 of the metropolitan area's 7.5 million residents had the flu.

College Closes After Negro-Aid Program Cut

SAN MATEO (AP) — Foiling possible trouble, Christmas vacation started a day early Friday at the College of San Mateo as the Faculty Senate voted to replace a minority-help program with one to help whites too.

The senate voted 195-3 to install a tutorial program to replace the two-year-old College Readiness Program for bringing minorities into higher education.

The action apparently left in suspension the future position of Negro Robert Hoover who was removed as director of the project. The action was hotly challenged by black student militants.

STORY OF RANSOM

ter the girl was abducted from her motel room, weeping only a nightgown.

At one point, after 48 hours without sleep and under the strain of knowing their daughter was in the hands of a potential killer, the newspaper said Mackle broke down and wept.

IN A STORY by Jim Savage, the Herald said it is believed also that shortly after Mackle got a call from his wife in Atlanta Tuesday morning telling about the kidnaping, he got a second call.

He was given a complicated series of instructions, the story said, and was warned that if he did not comply with the directions for the payment of $500,000 in ransom, Barbara would suffer.

The account said the kidnapers made numerous references to Mackle's personal affairs and associates — including his religious activities — and "made it clear they had stalked the entire family for weeks, possibly months, and were deadly serious about their half-million dollar mission."

The first attempt to make the payoff was bungled when unknown Miami police routed the kidnapers. Sometime Tuesday Mackle had been instructed — either by telephone or letter — to place the ad and gather the $500,000 in unmarked bills.

He was instructed to place the money in a suitcase and have his auto ready to travel as soon as he got the next call, when he would be told where to drop the ransom money, the newspaper said.

WHEN THE call came Thursday morning at 4 a.m., Mackle followed the instructions and drove with the suitcase of money to the Fair Isle Causeway and left it on the seawall. When he returned two hours later the money was gone. But Mackle learned that two policemen had inadvertently spoiled the payoff attempt.

At that point "Mackle broke down and wept," the newspaper said.

Immediately, the wealthy businessman issued an appeal to the kidnapers through various news media that he wanted them to contact him again.

The same suitcase of money was taken by the FBI to the Mackle house, and sometime after midnight Thursday was transferred to one of the Mackle cars and taken to another drop point, the newspaper said.

"This time there were no snarlups and the kidnappers got the money," the Herald said.

The new drop point, believed to have been near the Coral Park shopping center at 97th Avenue and Tamiami Trail, is about five miles from the Mackle's Coral Gables home.

DEATH ROW MEN NEARER GAS CHAMBER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Eighty-six convicts on death row at San Quentin were closer to the gas chamber Friday.

The State Supreme Court Thursday lifted the blanket stay of execution which had been in effect during consideration of the legality of the death penalty.

The action was expected following the court's decision on the Kay case in mid-November. At that time it ruled that the death penalty was legal but ordered new trials for convicts who had been found guilty by juries from which persons opposed to the death penalty were systematically excluded.

Slaying Nets Athlete Prison

OAKLAND (AP) — Former high school football star Frederick C. Harris, 19, was sentenced Friday to five years to life in prison for the gunshot slaying last March 2 of one of a wealthy East Bay auto dealer.

Harris was convicted Nov. 2 of second-degree murder in the death of Paul W. deMartini.

During the trial the prosecution contended Harris first tried to rob deMartini, who was shot twice through the heart with a .32 revolver in the ensuing fight.

Bar Seizure of Fishboats, Nixon Asked

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — Sen. George Murphy Friday said he will ask the Nixon administration to take measures to stop "gunboat diplomacy" being used by certain Latin American countries in the seizure of U.S. fishing vessels.

Murphy said he will propose a three-point program to the incoming administration which should prevent further seizures of American flag vessels by Latin American nations claiming a violation of their territorial waters.

The steps will include the withholding of foreign aid from the countries involved, barring the purchase of American military hardware by such nations and the termination of existing and a ban on future naval loans to these nations.

The Republican senator made the proposals following the seizure of an American fishing vessel, the Day Island, off the coast of Ecuador last week. The vessel was reportedly 19 miles off the coast of the South American nation when it was ordered into port.

Murphy claimed Ecuador has seized 37 American vessels since 1961, and that the Day Island was the seventh ship taken this year.

DOCK STRIKE STARTS ON EAST COAST

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. called his union out on strike Friday, starting a walkout that will tie up shipping in ports from Maine to the Gulf of Mexico.

Gleason made the announcement as the ILA, federal mediators and negotiators for the New York Shipping Assn. ended a final meeting in a futile attempt to halt the strike.

REDS WARNED BY THIEU

President Nguyen Cao Ky in a dramatic attempt to smooth over a Washington-Saigon rift widened by a new Ky blast at the U.S.

Harriman called for the meeting as the sharp-tongued Ky was quoted in a Paris newspaper as saying he would ask U.S. troops to get out of South Vietnam if the U.S. tried to force the South Vietnamese to become "slaves of the Communists."

The meeting between Ky and Harriman took place in the Saigon delegation's Paris offices and lasted an hour and a half. But no progress was reported toward resolving the simmering dispute between the U.S. and South Vietnam over procedure in the Paris talks.

In an earlier blast two nights ago, Ky had complained he not only had to fight his enemies but also "my so-called friends." He bluntly said he wished

"those irresponsible people (his critics) would shut their mouths."

MEANWHILE, North Vietnam's top-ranking delegate said the U.S. will have to oust the Saigon government before there can be any progress in the Vietnam peace talks.

"Peace in Vietnam is not possible until the present Saigon administration has been replaced by a peace government," he told the newsmen.

This appeared to be the toughest stand yet taken by the North Vietnamese.

On the military side, another ranking Hanoi official, Xuan Thuy, brushed aside as "without any importance" Thursday's U.S. warning that a Communist attack on Saigon would jeopardize the peace talks.

"If the Americans want to settle the war, we are ready to do so," Xuan Thuy replied when asked about the warning. "But if they want to continue the war we are also ready,"

he said.

U.S. DELEGATION deputy leader Cyrus Vance, who has been conducting private negotiations with the Hanoi officials, was to leave Paris today for Christmas in the U.S. He is not expected back in Paris until at least the end of the year. Without Vance in Paris, diplomats saw little possibility of a settlement of the procedural disputes.

Ky, too, is planning to return to Saigon for the holidays and to consult with his government. He is expected to leave early next week.

Guide on 'Pill' Given Students

MONTREAL (AP) — A hand-book on birth control is being distributed by the Students' of McGill University.

The editor, Aallan Feingold, said the society decided to publish the booklet when it learned there were 250 pregnancies and 60 abortions among McGill students last year — and that both these figures were conservative.

Cal Expo to Continue Losing, Legislators Told

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Friday continued operation of the debt-plagued California Exposition would amount to pouring "good money after bad."

Post, who warned years ago that Cal Expo was a bad investment, said the Legislature should consider suspending the exposition until basic decisions are made on the future of the project.

The Legislature's fiscal watchdog testified to the Assembly Government Organization Committee.

Hailed as a "glittering showcase of the Golden State," Cal Expo ran up a $1.5 million deficit during its first year of operation. Visitors complained that the unfinished Expo was not worth the $1.50 admission charge.

Post said if Expo runs a second year in 1969, it will be little more than an unglorified state fair.

"It will be an expensive state fair," he added. "You (legislators) are going to have to make some hard decision whether you will pour good money after bad," Post said.

Post said Cal Expo could recoup some of its investment if a convention center, to serve the Sacramento area, was built on the exposition grounds.

But representatives of the city of Sacramento told the committee that they believe such a center should be built downtown.

AT PREWEDDING LUNCHEON

Blushing Julie Nixon Given
'Recipe for a Perfect Bride'

By HELEN THOMAS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Shyly blushing bride-to-be Julie Nixon was given a cookbook on "365 ways to cook hamburger," a can of meat tenderizer and a "recipe for a perfect bride" Friday at a light-hearted prewedding luncheon in her honor.

The president-elect's daughter, who will marry David Eisenhower Sunday at 4 p.m. in Manhattan's Marble Collegiate Church, accompanied by her mother Pat and her sister Tricia, joined some 30 friends at the staid Cosmopolitan Club for the luncheon, given by her Smith College roommate, Susan Harvin of Houston, Tex.

SHE SHYLY hung her head when asked by reporters if she was "happy and excited" about her forthcoming wedding to the 20-year-old grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Answering for Juli, Mrs. Nixon said, "We're very excited."

Julie wore a tweed coat, while her mother was dressed in a brown double breasted broadtail coat and Tricia in a black simulated fur coat as they arrived at the Cosmopolitan Club, a women's professional and social club.

Luncheon guests sat at small tables decorated with pink tablecloths and pink and red carnations. The menu boasted pink bacardis, braised beef tips, baked Alaska and rose wine.

Julie's Smith College friends put on a surprise skit entitled "Recipe for a Perfect Bride" with little gifts to go with each ingredient.

The "perfect bride" recipe was:

"Take a large amount of common sense (a jar of pennies)

"Add a small portion of frivolity and foolishness (a red garter)

"And all the humor you can work in (a book of puns)

"Season with a dash of pep (pepper mill)

"Stir in tenderness, charity and graciousness (a large kitchen spoon for stirring, a can of meat tenderizer and rubber gloves for tenderness, cookie cutter in five shapes for charity, and for graciousness, a picture of Mrs. Nixon mounted on cardboard)

"Strain out envy and jealousy (a kitchen strainer)

"Fold in all the sweetness (a package of sugar and jar of honey)

"Home (a candle)

"And good luck (a tack shaped like a four-leaf clover to wear in her shoe at the wedding)

"Mix all these ingredients with a tremendous amount of love and serve before wings sprout" (a book entitled "Love Is a Special Way of Feeling.")

As she left the club after the luncheon, Julie commented, "We had a good time. It was real nice. All our friends were there." Asked if she were "a nervous bride," Julie replied "No, not at all."

Her husband-to-be will have his own party Friday night — a "floating bachelor party." The party will be given by David's former Exeter roommate and best man, Fred Grandy of Sioux City, Iowa, who said, "Our evening will be very sophisticated." The locations for the party were not disclosed.

The Bride Will Wear Victorian Styled Gown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women's Wear Daily, the trade publication, reported Friday that Julie Nixon will wear "an old Victorian, hourglass creation by Priscilla of Boston" for her wedding Sunday.

The dress, as described by the publication, "has a high neckline, short puffed sleeves, tucked bodice and wide skirt with pearl columns and lace applique borders. It is in ivory Brussels lace."

"Inside the hemline, embroidered in blue are Julie and David's names and the date of the wedding," the publication added in a front page story that carried a sketch of the purported design—the 20-year old daughter of the president-elect has chosen for her marriage Sunday at 4:00 p.m. in Marble Collegiate Church. WWD said the gown carried a $2,000 price tag.

Details of the bridal gown and bridesmaids' dresses are not for publication before Sunday afternoon, although at a briefing Thursday afternoon for reporters, Mrs. Gerry Van Der Heuvel, Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, spelled out details of the bridal gown, with reporters promising to hold the story until the wedding.

Women's Wear said its reporters left the briefing deliberately at the news of an embargo on details of the gown.

"Sources on the ... sketch are independent and in no way connected to the Nixon press office nor the material give out on a hold basis," said the publication.

The pilot of the liner, on its way to San Diego from Ft. Worth, Tex., made the landing after experiencing control difficulties, an Air Force spokesman reported.

Pope Asks Opening of Bethlehem

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has sent an appeal to the Israeli government to ease restrictions on Arab pilgrims who want to visit Bethlehem for Christmas, Vatican sources said Friday night.

They said the Pope instructed the Holy See's apostolic delegate to Jerusalem and Palestine, Msgr. Agostino Sepinski, to approach the Israeli government on the question and ask that Christians of all races and nationalities be permitted access to holy places at Christmas time.

The Pope acted in response to an appeal addressed to him earlier this week by a group of Arab Christian leaders in east Jerusalem, the sources said.

A similar appeal was made last Christmas, they said, but Israel informed the Holy See it found "great difficulty" in lifting restrictions on Arab pilgrims because it feared Arab terrorists would mix with genuine pilgrims and perhaps do harm to persons and property.

The sources said the Holy See could not enter into the merits of the argument, but the Pope felt he must accept the appeal of the Arab Christians to intervene with the Israeli government.

They noted that Sepinski would make an official approach to Israel because the Vatican does not have diplomatic relations with the Jerusalem government.

MAN BELIEVED to be the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines jetliner to Cuba Thursday is shown with his wife, Mrs. Joanne Washington, on their wedding day four years ago. Mrs. Washington said she is certain her estranged husband, Thomas, was the hijacker, and the little girl with him was their daughter, Jennifer.

$3,500 FOR DC-8 Airlines Get Bill for Havana Stop

NEW YORK (AP) — Based on past experience Eastern Airlines will probably receive a bill for about $3,500 from the Cuban government for servicing the DC8 jet hijacked to Havana Thursday.

George Clift, a State Department spokesman for the Cuban affairs office, says there is no evidence that Cuba has been shaking down U.S. airlines

X-15 Makes Final Flight in Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The X-15 rocket-plane program has ended, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Friday.

The agency said the flight-research project had been completed according to plans made earlier this year.

The plane, only manned aircraft capable of hypersonic flight — more than five times the speed of sound — made its final flight Oct. 24.

It was the 199th flight in the program. A planned, 200th flight scheduled for Friday was called off because of adverse weather conditions and will not be rescheduled, NASA said.

The first X-15 flight was on June 8, 1959. A total of three of the rocket planes were built and one was destroyed in an accident in 1967. The remaining two will be retained at NASA's Flight Research Center in California.

The aircraft reached a peak altitude during the program of 354,200 feet and a top speed of 4,520 miles an hour.

Did Nixon Cancel or Shriver Reject U.N. Envoy Offer?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The capital buzzed with speculation Friday night why Sargent Shriver, the most eligible Democrat for Richard M. Nixon's cabinet, failed appointment as the next U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Opinion among insiders in both camps — Nixon and Kennedy — were divided on whether the president-elect withdrew an offer to Shriver or whether the Kennedy-in-law rejected an offer.

On one point sources on both sides agreed: That Nixon's switch from Shriver to Charles W. Yost came shortly before his announcement Friday morning. These sources said as late as Thursday that Nixon was prepared either to name Shriver or to reappoint the present U.N. Ambassador J. R. Wiggins.

WITHIN the space of a few hours during Wednesday night — and some close to the Nixon camp said it might have occurred as early as Tuesday — the plans fell through and Yost, a veteran diplomat with U.N. experience who happens to be a Democrat, was chosen as a compromise that no one was likely to object to.

Nixon himself said Yost agreed "early this week" to take the job.

Speculation on Shriver's fate varied widely, but these points were made on both sides.

—Nixon is reported to have believed that his discussion with Shriver in New York City Dec. 8 was on a tentative basis. He resented the publicity — whose source largely originated in the Kennedy camp — that made it appear a firm offer had been extended and that the decision was Shriver's to make.

—After he first indicated to Nixon he would accept the post, Shriver ultimately demurred for two reasons. According to this account, he received insufficient assurances from Nixon that he would be in a greater position to mold policy than his predecessors, rather than merely acting as a spokesman for Nixon foreign policy decisions. Secondly, the Kennedy clan was fearful that too close an identification of Shriver with Nixon's policy might embarrass Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

MIAMI (UPI) — A Philadelphia saleswoman said Friday the Negro man who hijacked an Eastern Air Lines DC8 to Cuba while cradling a little girl in his lap was her former husband.

Mrs. Joanne Washington, 25, said the man identified on the plane's passenger list as T. Washington was Thomas Washington of Chicago, who she divorced in March.

Eastern's flight 47 with 151 persons aboard was diverted to Havana Thursday on a scheduled non-stop flight from Philadelphia to Miami. The eight crewmen returned the jet to Miami late Thursday night, and two Eastern Electra propjets arrived with the passengers Friday.

In addition to Cub's charges, however, the airlines lose money on the time the hijacked plane is out of service, and must pay another crew to fly a substitute plane in its regular runs.

Those costs vary, depending on how long the plane is in Cuba and whether it is during rush seasons. One airline spokesman in New York estimated the total cost, exclusive of lost revenue, at $8,000 to $10,000.

Clift said Cuba bills the Swiss Embassy in Havana, which forwards the charges to the State Department in Washington, which in turn bills the airline.

Nixon Calls Shots, Says Shriver

Sargent Shriver said Friday in Paris that it was Nixon's decision, not his own, that he remain in Paris.

"I'm very happy to be where I am," he added.

Interviewed at a noisy Christmas party in the U.S. embassy on the Place de la Concorde, the ambassador said Nixon had asked some time ago "whether I would be interested" in the New York job.

"IT APPEARED to me," Shriver said.

"As Mr. Nixon said," the ambassador continued, "he thought about a number of people for the position. He also thought about the continuity and sensitivity of this (the Paris) post."

Asked whether there had been any pressure upon him from members of the Kennedy family or other Democrats to refuse the United Nations assignment, Shriver replied with a smile, "You get advice from all sides."

AS FOR the final decision, he asserted, "all decisions are the President's."

"I feel great," Shriver said. "Staying in Paris is the best Christmas present of the year for me and my family. I think there is plenty of work to be done here for our country."

discuss it and if you reached a conclusion that the individual involved either may say 'no' or that for the good of the country he ought to say 'no,' then you don't offer him the job."

TELE-VUES

Very Interesting, but Not Practical

By GEORGE ERES

TV-Radio Editor

That was a stupendous suggestion Nicholas Johnson, a member of the FCC, made the other day in testifying before the President's Commission on Violence.

Johnson said:
"Why shouldn't a television network be liable for the psychic harm it does to millions of young children who watch the Saturday morning 'children's programs'?" The TV-set manufacturer is legally liable for physical damage done by radiation from the set. Why should the network be free of responsibility for the psychic harm done by what it radiates from the set? Legal liability has been an effective instrument of reform in the past and is at least worth examination as a means of improving the most extreme instances of injurious programming."

I GUESS Johnson is serious. Watching him on TV as he testified, he gave the appearance of a very angry man—and a very frustrated one. After all, he's a member of the FCC and he can't get anyone to pay any attention to him at the networks on this violence question. I sympathize.

Personally, I can't wait for somebody to bring an action as he suggests, because I'm eager to see the lineup of psychiatrists—on both sides—argue the "evidence" about the effect of TV on people, and a jury of our peers make a finding.

But in a sense, the Commission on Violence is doing that. The only trouble is they keep talking about something nobody, so far, has any solid facts on which to make judgments.

MATTER of fact, I don't know why only children should be protected from "psychic harm." Personally, I feel I've suffered considerable mental anguish watching TV programs. This has been due not only to violence, but to just bad TV.

For instance there were a couple of Christmas type shows Thursday night on TV, "The Little Drummer Boy" and "The Andy Williams Show." The mechanical antics of the creatures in "Drummer Boy" were slightly less than amusing and the young hero learns to hate people when he sees his father killed. No doubt the youngsters were amused. The Andy Williams show can only be labeled dull since this is the charitable season.

I'd say there's a good case against TV, all right, but I don't think it's in the law courts or in legislation. I just don't see what you're going to legislate against. Whatever in the world makes anyone think that he can legislate taste?

THERE WILL be some

Leave It To Larry

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

Tom Cole tells about the emigrant whose brother financed his passage from Poland to America and on that most memorable day in his entire life, he got off the bus on 42nd Street in New York City.

His outlook was additionally brightened by the fact that his benefactor had already gotten him a temporary job in a dept. store playing Santa Claus, which was to begin the following day.

The most fantastic neon-sign display in the world was just beginning to surround the spires of this great city with haloes of rosy warmth — adding to the Christmas Spirit which was everywhere.

Putting down his two heavy suitcases and looking very starry-eyed, his feelings of dismay soon yielded to disbelief, amazement, admiration—finally giving way to complete enchantment! As his eyes looked up the sides of that "leviathan-of-the-landmarks" — the Empire State Building and eventually reached its very pinnacle, he froze on the spot!

As his awe somewhat subsided, he permitted his gaze to slowly cascade down this structure of stone and steel, and upon reaching street-level he found—someone had stolen his suitcase!!!

Folks—if you're planning to put a new Chev. in your wife's Christmas stocking—don't let someone Sack it to You! See the greatest "Sanny Claus" of em' all — Ol' Larry Meder at Harbor Chev., 3770 Cherry, GA 6-3341.

COVERAGE OF VIOLENCE VITAL, SAY TV PRESIDENTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three television network presidents, under fire for TV violence, told a White House commission Friday that they and the public are the best judges of programming and that the government should keep hands off.

"I would rather be responsible to the people than to a small commission," CBS president Frank Stanton told the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence.

Stanton, president Leonard H. Goldenson of ABC and president Julian Goodman of NBC, said their networks are working to reduce the amount of mayhem in entertainment programs. But they asserted unfettered news coverage of violent events is vital to an informed public.

They deplored violence for violence's sake in TV entertainment, but said there is no solid evidence that TV brutality causes people to imitate such acts in reality.

Commission members criticized the TV executives for the heavy diet of murder, rape, sadism, war and brutality in entertainment programs, and for failing to undertake their own studies of the impact on viewers.

Stanton was adamant in refusing to answer a series of vigorous questions about how his network evaluates news. Stanton was firmly supported by Goodman and Goldenson.

Said Goldenson at one point: "We reject any attempt to abridge the freedom of our news department as we see it. The responsibility for news presentation cannot be delegated, and we cannot yield to intimidation from any quarter, even though as broadcasters we are a licensed industry."

Stanton denied the charge that his network had faked pictures during television coverage of antiwar demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention last August.

He told the commission that CBS considered the charge that its news cameramen had posed pictures of feigned injuries "as one of the most serious charges that has ever been made about our network."

The reaction of the TV executives produced some annoyance among members of the commission, which ended three days of hearings intended in part to discover why violence is news, and how this news affects the reading and viewing public.

"You say you report for the people," federal Judge A. Leon Higginbotham of Philadelphia, the acting chairman, told Stanton. "Who speaks for the people if it is not commissions or elected representatives of government who choose them?"

"You don't want to deal with government," he added.

"You don't want to deal with the Federal Communications Commission. Who will you speak to?"

Mrs. Patricia Harris, a law professor at Howard University asked whether "your reluctance for outside oversight of news judgment" extends to nongovernmental or nonlegislative groups.

"No," replied Stanton. "It's the fact we're meeting in this building with this commission appointed by the President. I would have no reluctance to discuss it with professional journalists."

Mrs. Harris said the purpose of the 1st Amendment was "not to protect the media but the people."

Goldenson was questioned for more than two hours, primarily about a commission staff report showing that violence in ABC television programs had increased during the past year despite public revulsion over the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in the meantime.

Goldenson replied that only one of 30 new programs under development at ABC is in the "adventure" category. He said it takes about 18 months to get a new program on the air after its inception. Thus some programs this season were planned before the King-Kennedy murders this spring.

Mail-Order Bilking Sours Yule

By JIM McCAULEY
Staff Writer

Hundreds of Long Beach area presents won't arrive by Christmas. Many never will show.

You can blame it on the 20th Century Scrooge — a few fast-buck mail order operators. Of 65,000 letters to ACTION LINE in the past two years, 10 per cent related to complaints about mail-order merchandise.

Similar complaints jam the files of federal postal inspectors, the Better Business Bureau and other agencies. The volume is so staggering mail-fraud prosecution often comes only after scores of persons have been bilked.

The man who knows best the hazards of ordering merchandise by mail is J. L. Padgett, federal postal inspector in Los Angeles.

"I myself never order anything through the mails. I prefer to deal with a store where I can return unsatisfactory merchandise in person," Inspector Padgett said.

In virtually all cases, any reputable product is available at a retail outlet. Complaint letters show this is what happens if a mail-order operator, often doing business from a box-office number, is out to make a few fast bucks:

—The merchandise may not be sent for a long time — if at all. In the meantime, the operator is doing business with the customer's money.

—The merchandise may not perform as ballyhooed, and a guaranteed refund may be difficult to get even if the product is returned.

ACTION LINE sometimes goes to bat for a small percentage of the persons who have refunds coming. "It's like pulling teeth to get the dough," explained one Action Line staffer.

There's still a line formed for refunds on a $15 automatic bug killer — a device to wipe out the patio-area insect population. It turned out the device had some bugs in it.

Mrs. Marie Kerr of the Better Business Bureau said some problems exist on returns and delays even at some of the more reputable mail-order firms.

THE PROBLEMS multiply when you do business with a firm with a box-number address in New York or Pittsburgh.

BBB files in Long Beach show how a number of Southland women were induced to order a "free" wig from the Phillips Social Club of Philadelphia. The catch was that the recipient had to order a $5-to-$30 styling for the wig.

In an appearance before a Federal Grand Jury, U.S. Attorney Robert Blank said the wigs cost the mail-order operator less than $1.10 each. A Philadelphia Federal Grand Jury indicted the seller on 11 counts of using the mails to defraud, according to the BBB.

"You have just won a beautiful $89 value 100 per cent human Hair Wig," wrote the mail-order operator. The BBB office at 130 Pine Ave. became involved when one of the pitch letters arrived at a home in Compton.

A TYPICAL mail-order runaround was encountered by a Paramount man. He asked ACTION LINE for help on a $48.28 refund. He said he bought 36 battery additives under a company offer to take back the merchandise and refund the money if he couldn't sell them within 30 days.

Asked about the matter, a company spokesman said the firm had no record of receiving the returned merchandise. The New York firm suggested payment could be made if the purchaser can provide proof he sent the goods.

A National Better Business Bureau bulletin on the same firm, National Dynamics Corp., reported: "The bureau has received complaints from agents who, having made refunds to customers, and having decided to discontinue selling the additive, were unable to obtain reimbursement from the company . . ."

A Lakewood woman also faced a battle this year over a $108 check to Geriatrex Products Co. in Canonsburg, Pa. She received back her canceled check—but never the order. Federal postal inspectors informed ACTION LINE an investigation is under way into the company's practices.

With the help of state authorities she finally received her refund.

One of the headaches of authorities — nonperformance of mail-order operators, isn't necessarily fraud. Actual intent to defraud must be shown for successful prosecution, according to Postal Inspector Padgett.

THAT MEANS fast-buck operators can sometimes duck the law by delaying shipment of merchandise and just outlasting the customer's determination. If a complaint is pending, they ship the goods.

ACTION LINE, BBB and other complaint-receivers stress there are many reliable mail-order houses that stand behind their goods. But in their line of work, they hear mostly about the others.

And because of the "fly-by-nighters," Santa's bag will be a little lighter than intended next week.

Hospitals Urge Limiting Visits in Flu Siege

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A persistent Hong Kong flu epidemic in the Southland brought a new appeal Friday from officials of Long Beach's major hospitals.

In a joint statement, administrators from four of the largest city hospitals urged certain would-be visitors to slay away.

The statement pointed out curtailment of hospital visiting would "help to curb the spread of the infection."

Hospital officials recommended the following persons not visit patients:

"Those who feel a cold coming on, or who may be experiencing chills, sore throat, headache, general weakness or any of the other symptoms of flu."

Instead, such persons are asked to call patients on the telephone.

"Calls should be placed during the afternoon or early evening," the statement said.

The statement added: "Even in normal times, hospitals are no place for visitors under 14 years old. For the sake of their own health, children should be kept at home during the epidemic."

Navy Delivers Christmas Present to Sailor's Baby

It's her daddy FN John Hoge of Ontario, who arrived home for the holidays aboard the destroyer USS Maddox, was greeted by wife, Joy, and four-month-old daughter, Lisa, at Long Beach Naval Station. Also reaching L.B. home-port after six-month duty tour in Vietnam area was the guided missile destroyer USS Berkeley, with another 300 holiday-eager crewmen.

Holiday Pageantry Features Parades at Sea, on Land

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

Two seagoing Christmas parades — plus one for landlubbers — are on deck today, giving pageant parade lovers a choice of times and locations.

The three events are among several colorful pre-Christmas activities which include Disneyland's annual yule parade of cartoon characters, naming — and locating — winners in the Long Beach Junior Chamber's Home Lighting competition and a medieval yuletide pageant hosted by the Long Beach Recreation Department.

THE GRANDDADDY of all Southland water events — the 23rd annual Naples Christmas Boat Parade — starts at 6 p.m. tonight and again Sunday, with more than 40 decorated floats and vessels parading through the Naples canals.

Today only, also at 6 p.m., the sixth annual "Christmas Afloat" parade of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce and the Port of Los Angeles will be held along the San Pedro waterfront, featuring more than 50 privately-owned craft, specially lighted for the season.

At 11 a.m. today, the West Long Beach Beautiful Committee will stage a Christmas parade with fire engines, antique cars and clowns — even a British double-decker bus — trundling down Santa Fe Avenue.

The parade starts at Columbia Street, moves north to 34th Street, west to Easy Avenue, then south again to Columbia.

The double showing of the Naples parade — which will crowd Alamitos Bay with a variety of gaily bedecked boats competing for prizes — will also feature the Contessa de Napoli, whose identity is unknown — who will be joined by a royal court composed of California State College at Long Beach's Homecoming Queen, Miss White Hat and Miss Seal Beach.

The Naples event also will feature a seagoing serenade by the Lakewood Ambassadors Drum and Bugle Corps and the Mayfair High School Band.

OTHER WEEKEND events include:

"Fantasy on Parade" at Disneyland, with more than 300 of Disney's favorite characters marching through the Magic Kingdom's Main Street to the music of 20 bands and musical groups.

Henry Fonda will narrate tonight's parade at 9 p.m. with Rock Hudson doing the honors Sunday night.

—Middle-Ages Christmas Pageant at 7:30 tonight in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. The program will feature more than 250 children singing seasonal songs of Victorian England.

Three judges wrestled long and hard Friday night before naming major winners in the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas Lighting Contest.

Winners, in categories, were:

Religious—James Farrington, 5449 Anaheim Road, for a Nativity scene done entirely in broken glass.

Tree — Merle Combs, 2249 Tulane St., for a tree without lights or ornamental balls. Combs trimmed his tree with yarn bows and felt animals over impressive white flocking, and illuminated by floodlights.

Outdoor Lighting—Ambrose Fortna, 2236 Golden Ave., whose entire lawn is covered with a mantle of imitation snow on which Santa, sleigh and reindeer, a church and elves hold court.

Novelty—Perrin Endriss, 1860 College Circle, who has a troupe of impish leprechauns assisting Santa on his rounds while his team of reindeer wait impatiently with a sleigh.

Contest judges were John Calhoun, Jack Snow and Malcolm Epley, associate editor of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

1,300 at LBCC Mail Praise to Hayakawa

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

Somewhere in the mails today is an unconventional "Christmas card" from 1,300-plus Long Beach City College students and faculty to embattled acting President S. I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State.

Instead of the usual yuletide greeting it tersely declares:

"We express our admiration and praise for Dr. Hayakawa. His courageous leadership merits the support of the intellectual community and people everywhere who cherish reason over riot, and value the peaceful pursuit of knowledge . . ."

The card — actually a resolution reportedly signed by over 10 per cent of LBCC's student body and faculty — began to take shape early this week, and was finished and mailed late Friday.

It began the brain child of two youthful students, Richard Kaffenberger and Robert Grafie, who, Kaffenberger said, "got fed up with the violence" which repeatedly this fall has closed the San Francisco campus.

Kaffenberger and Grafie began circulating their petition and were joined by 20 or more fellow students in manning a table daily in the campus' central quad.

Beyond supporting Hayakawa, the resolution puts its signers on record as being:

"Committed to intellectual ferment and experimentation . . . opposed to all forms of bigotry and discrimination . . . cognizant of the need for further educational innovation and reform."

Finally, the resolution "rejects and repudiates vilification, vandalism and weapons of fanatics bent on destroying free universities."

Students Vote for Merger

A proposed merger of student body organizations on Long Beach City College's business and technology and liberal arts campuses Friday won approval of business and technological students.

Also elected were spring semester student body officers:

Randy Mitchell, 20, of 4430 1/2 Lakewood Blvd., president; Michael Salazar, 19, of 754 Via Carmelitos, vice president; Bobbi Nation, 21, of 5152 Ebell St., secretary; Sue Bergman, 20, of 946 Paradise Lane, treasurer, and Walter Schneiderreit, 20, of 1090 Gardenia Ave., district 1 representative.

The student body merger now must be voted upon — after the holidays — by liberal arts students.

Baby-Rattle Armed Suspect Captured

By JIM HYNES
Staff Writer

A suspected "baby rattle bandit" — still carrying the infant pacifier he reportedly used as a weapon — was nabbed by Long Beach police Friday, minutes after the $270 stickup of a Lakewood bank branch.

Lakewood deputies teamed with police to capture the 24-year-old suspect as he fled in a car police said had been stolen.

Turned over to FBI agents after being booked on suspicion of robbery was Robert Earl Benson of 611 W. Pacific Coast Highway, who was captured at 3356 Petaluma Ave.

Investigators said a man strolled into the Bank of America branch at 6437 E. Spring St., about 12:30 p.m., and handed teller Marian Fox a note which read:

"Act calm, I'm nervous.

Give me all your $20s, quick."

Miss Fox said the bandit was holding something that looked like a pistol. When the officers arrested the suspect, however, he had only a baby rattle in his pocket.

Deputies said they found $270 — the amount taken — in Benson's possession.

Children's Hall Appeals for Toys

An appeal for Christmas toys was made Friday on behalf of needy children who have been placed in "shelter-care" homes through the county's MacLaren Hall.

Mrs. Carole Carmean of the facility's placement service explained children brought to the hall in El Monte, are those who have been "abused, battered, neglected, put in physical danger or taken from inadequate homes."

"For some reason, prior channels of communication that resulted in donations in the past have failed," Mrs. Carmean said, "and now we have no toys for any of the children."

Mrs. Carmean said persons wishing to donate toys — or funds to purchase toys — may contact Mrs. Constance Verssen, a foster mother, 8618 S. Shadyside Ave., Whittier, or phone her at 692-7346.

Beach Services Bill $100,000

From Our L.A. Bureau

L. S. Hollinger, county chief administrative officer, will ask the Board of Supervisors Tuesday to pay $100,000 before June 30 to Long Beach for life-guard services and beach maintenance.

State law provides for county financial assistance to cities operating facilities used by many persons living beyond the municipal boundaries.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Hold This Magic Spirit All Year!

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A mysterious and wonderful phenomenon of the Christmas Season is the way everything and everyone seems changed. It is as though a magic wand were waved over this strife-torn world—and over men's hearts. A strange, ineffable, sort of lulling joyousness seems to pervade the atmosphere. That which yesterday seemed unattractive suddenly becomes beautiful. It is the old-time exciting miracle of Christmas.

On a mid-December morning my wife and I were walking along Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles. At a busy intersection I noticed a hippie standing astride a bicycle waiting for a traffic light change. Now I have seen hippies and hippies, but the looks of this one out-hipped all others. He was wearing a long dirty robe fastened at waist by a cord with tassels. His hair was long and shaggy; feet bare except for dirty sandals.

Now personally I do not go for unkemptness and the no-bath policy. They repel me. "Just look at that character!" I muttered to my wife. And I proceeded to enlighten her on my opinion of the likes of him.

MY WIFE is a philosopher of sorts and she responded mildly, "Oh, maybe he's just trying to find himself."

"Well, he sure is going at it wrong," I said. And I'm afraid there was plenty of aversion in my voice.

We were now quite close to the man. I was staring coldly at him. My look doubtless showed my disapproval. He turned his head and met my gaze. And he gave me one of the most beautiful smiles I ever saw. It was gentle, kind and loving. It winged its way right into my heart.

I smiled back. I don't know what sort of a smile mine was, for he had taken me by surprise. But my attitude had suddenly changed. There was good will going out from me to him. Not a word was said. Just a smile between two human beings, with good will flowing in both directions.

I walked on, remorse mingled with good will. I felt better about unlikable people. Then came some understanding: We human beings are not all alike, nor was it ever in the scheme of things that we should be. Each of us has his own individuality. Different people search for truth in different ways. Who am I to expect everyone to go at things the same way as I would?

If only we could peg ourselves to the mutual tolerance and good feeling that takes hold of us at Christmastime! If somehow we could hold it and live on this high wavelength all through the year! Then we could eliminate scores of our present human problems. There would be good will and brotherhood and justice the world over.

WHY CAN'T we? Well, maybe we just aren't big enough. But that we do have within us what it takes to make ourselves that big can hardly be doubted. Were we not taught that man is created in God's image? And that, being so, we have plenty of potential yet to draw on.

The basic meaning of Christmas can, I think, be very simply stated. It was announced in prophecy before the birth of Christ. He would be called Emmanuel, said the prophet, meaning God-with-us. The message of Christmas is that our Creator is not a vengeful God, not indifferent and unconcerned; He is a loving God. He loves you no matter what you do and is always present — to comfort, strengthen or enlighten whenever His help and guidance are asked.

No wonder, then, that Christmas brings so much joy. "The supreme happiness of life," says Victor Hugo, "is the conviction that we are loved."

By developing and practicing love toward each other we get in tune with life — and that makes you real happy deep inside. Otherwise we get out of harmony and grow increasingly disgruntled. When you go around disliking people, feeling jealous or superior, even hating — gripping about life itself — you are building inner walls which shut happiness out.

BUT IT IS possible to work out of that dead end by practicing love and good will toward everybody. Easy? Of course not. Human nature has fluctuating moods and high levels of good will are hard to hold but still it is possible.

Of course when you feel irritable and annoyed it can be very hard to love anybody, even yourself. But the ability to love both yourself and others is always more than worth the effort. The more you do of it the greater your mastery of good will — the more you will grow in happiness. And you'll feel like saying "Merry Christmas!" the whole year through.

'Christmas Sunday' Will Resound to Joyous Music

Sacred Classics, Original Works in Area Churches; Youth Featured

On the last Sunday of Advent, Long Beach area churches will resound to the joyous and solemn music of the Christmas story. Many special programs are planned, featuring choirs of all ages, sometimes augmented by orchestras and guest artists. Young people and children play a leading role in many of the programs.

Here are some of the special pre-Christmas events, as reported by the churches:

Noted baritone soloist and choral director Harold Agal will present his first major sacred work since returning to First Baptist, 10th and Pine. At 7 p.m. he will conduct the most beloved and traditional choruses and solos from Handel's majestic "Messiah," with the large Sanctuary Choir. Regular and guest solo artists will include Bette Kietzman, Betty Nixon, Jean Kinnell, sopranos; Pat Graves and Marie Bell, contraltos; and Fran vanEe, tenor. Sam Posthuma will play the overture.

AT NORTH Long Beach Brethren, 6095 Orange Ave., at 7 p.m., there will be a premiere performance of the cantata "Wonderful Love," by Bob Ashton of Denver, well known composer of Christian music. A full orchestra will support the 55-voice choir.

First Methodist, at Fifth and Pacific, being its Youth, Childrens, Sanctuary, and noted Layfield Bell choirs into its Christmas Sunday services at 11 a.m., featuring works from Mueller, Handel, Shelley and Mozart, with an organ postlude, "Yuletide Melodies" by director of music Rolla Alford.

Another "first" is on tap at Bay Shore Community, 5100 The Toledo, where the annual Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. will feature the debut of an original play, "Night of the Big Star," performed by the young people of the church school and Teen Centers. It is a play, says Rev. Milton Gabrielson, in which "the fresh young voices come between the audience and the mechanical santas and neon non-man's land of commercials. The sense of wonder, mystery and joy lives again in our modern world while this play unfolds." It will also be performed for the Senior Citizens patients of Long Beach General Hospital as a Christmas Eve gift.

It'll be a traditional

SALVATION ARMY SETS BIG SUNDAY

It will be a big "Christmas Sunday" at the Salvation Army Temple, 455 E. Spring St. It begins with a special Sunday School Christmas program at 9:30 a.m. Brig. and Mrs. Orval A. Taylor will be welcomed, and Brig. Taylor, Southern California Divisional Commander, will bring the 10:45 a.m. worship message: "Away With the Manager." Wallace Arntzen will be guest soloist and will also present a Christmas reading.

At 7 p.m., following a prelude of Christmas music by the Temple Brass Band, there will be a pageant presentation of H. Graham du Bois' Christmas play, "The Perfect Gift." Concluding the day will be an hour of festive Christmas candlelight fellowship and refreshment hour, with members of the cast.

Youth Folk Service 9 p.m. at First Lutheran, at Ninth and Atlantic, with Scripture reading interspersed with song.

ST. LUKE'S Episcopal's noted Choristers will be heard in the Advent and Christmas portions of the Messiah at the 9:10 and 11 a.m. services at the church at Atlantic and Seventh.

El Dorado Park Community, at 3655 Norwalk Blvd., will present in cantata form "The World at Christmas Time," with music from different nations, starting at 7 p.m.

First Nazarene, at 2280 Clark Ave., will present its annual Christmas Festival of Choirs at 7 p.m.

An all-music Adoration Service is on tap 11 a.m. at First United Presbyterian, 600 E. Fifth. At First Christian, Fifth and Locust, James McKowen, the minister, will bring a brief message at 7 p.m., followed by Christmas music. The spectacular Singing

'THIS WAS FOR THIS'

A spectacular nightly display outside of Long Beach General Hospital highlights "the real meaning of Christmas," says Chaplain Fred Crumb, who has seen his idea come to reality in his 10th year at the hospital.

The display, on the southwest corner of Redondo Avenue and Willow Street, has two large panels. Over a scene of the Bethlehem manger are the words "THIS WAS" and the eye proceeds to a large panel of the Resurrection of Jesus, with the headline "FOR THIS."

The display, 35 feet high and 40 feet wide, is surmounted by a star superimposed on the cross, carrying out the same central theme, connecting Christmas to Easter. "Without that," comments Rev. Crumb, "Christmas is meaningless."

The display is spotlighted and floodlighted from 4:30 p.m. to approximately midnight each night through New Years.

Reagan Hails Hanukkah Spirit

Governor Ronald Reagan Friday issued the following message on the occasion of the celebration of Hanukkah.

"Hanukkah, the Festival of Lights, is a treasured part of the Jewish heritage, for it commemorates the noble struggle for religious freedom by members of the Jewish faith some twenty one centuries ago.

"Down through the years, the celebration of Hanukkah has brought renewed hope and inspiration of the Jewish community. In these times of tension and strife, such inspiration is more important than ever if we are to meet and solve the problems facing us as a free people.

"I extend warmest wishes and sincere greetings to all my fellow citizens of the Jewish faith on the occasion of the celebration of Hanukkah."

Christmas Tree, a 40-voice ensemble, will be heard at 7 p.m. in First Assembly of God, 10th and Linden. Lime Avenue Southern Baptist, 850 Lime Ave., will present its Christmas Sermon in Song at 7 p.m.

Grace Methodist, Third and Junipero, will offer "A Martin Luther Christmas" at 7 p.m., with Pastor Stan Brown reading passages from Luther's powerful interpretation of the Christmas Story, and Don Haneke leading the congregation in a fresh interpretation of the carols. At Grace's 8:45 and 11 a.m. services, there will be a presentation of The Christmas Story by Ron Nelson, with choir augmented by youth from Corona del Mar, and using brass and timpani. Narration will be by Rev. Brown.

THE CANTATA "How Far to Bethlehem," by Marie Pooler of Long Beach, will be presented by the Chorister Choir of Christ Lutheran, 6500 Stearns St. at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship hours.

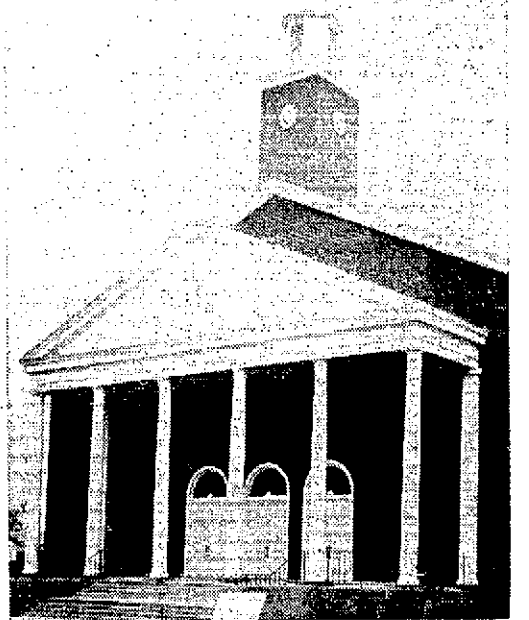

"Born a King," by the prolific Peterson, will be presented 7 p.m. by the massive choir of Bethany Baptist, 2250 Clark Ave. At University Lutheran, 1429 Clark Ave., the Sunday School Christmas Program, "Come and Worship," at 6 p.m.

A traditional 9:30 a.m. program, with children of the church school attending with their parents, and a special children's Christmas story incorporated into the service, will be held at 9:30 a.m. in First Congregational, Third and Cedar. Children will also be featured at Trinity Lutheran, Eighth and Linden, with a Young People's Christmas Program at 9:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Also at University Baptist, 3434 Chatwin Ave., where a Sunday School Christmas Party is set for 7 p.m.

And at Holy Trinity Lutheran, 1900 E. Carson St. a Children's Christmas Program is on tap at 3 p.m.

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM NEWS OF RELIGION

B-4—INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM Long Beach, Calif., Sat., Dec. 21, 1958

STATELY Southern Colonial-style sanctuary of big Calvary Baptist Church has transformed appearance of Bellflower area with its towering spire and cross. It opens Sunday with dedicatory services and open House.

Calvary Baptist Dedicates New Church Sunday

Dramatically rushed to completion in time for Christmas, Calvary Baptist of Bellflower swings open the doors of its handsome new 1,500-seat sanctuary this Sunday in dedicatory services.

The 3 p.m. dedicatory message will be by Rev. Dr. H. Frank Collins, under whose leadership the church has become one of the Southland's largest, with an average attendance this year of 1,115 and one of California's strongest Sunday Schools.

Rep. Del Clawson, and Bellflower Mayor Ray Smith will be among those present to offer congratulations to the congregation.

The community is invited to the service, and to the Open House immediately following, to look through the impressive Southern Colonial church, at 1722 Clark Ave. Total cost was $750,000.

At 6 p.m. there will be an organ-piano concert, featuring guest artist Marion Snider of Dallas, with Dr. Collins also at the Conn electronic pipe organ, a gift of Mrs. Ruth Cipperey.

The 100-voice church choir will present Peterson's Christmas cantata "Love Transcending" at 7:30 p.m. to climax the dedicatory day.

Dr. Collins explains the progress of Calvary Baptist this way: "God has a message in His word, and He has a method. When both are followed, the church continually grows. Our church has kept the pledge that 'they cease not to teach Jesus.'"

Christmas Eve services will appear in Tuesday's Independent and Press-Telegram. Deadline for material is Monday, 2 p.m.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHIAEL

THE CHRISTMAS STORY

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord and this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger." (Luke 2, 11-12)

These words have been said in many tongues and drawn in pictures of many cultural traditions. They are old but forever new. Let us pray that the spirit of Christmas, the spirit of love and giving be reborn in all the world this Christmas eve.

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Come to Church Christmas

They Keep Christ in Christmas; Billy Sets Big Date; Maddox vs. Ga. Baptist

By LES RODNEY

They've been around so long — 102 years, to be exact — they're sort of taken for granted. But the Salvation Army rates a special thought as the Christmas season goes into its last weekend.

For many poor families, the Corps is Santa Claus. Operating with an unbelievably low budget — made possible by the austere living allowances of its dedicated Christian workers — it channels your contributions into direct, immediate and practical help for those who need it.

And never forgets to add a few toys to the baskets of food and clothing. It doesn't enter into an academic argument about whether or not Christ has been kept in Christmas. It does all it can to put Christ in Christmas, remembering that He said "Let the children come to me." You'd better believe that there are some children, even if relatively few, who would get nothing but disappointment on the day bearing His name if the Salvation Army weren't around these parts.

Jesus also cared about the aged, the lonely, the sick, the maladjusted, the unlucky, the down and out, the unloved. In the 25th chapter of Matthew's Gospel it is clearly enough said that every act of genuine human kindness to a person in need is a gift given to Jesus Himself.

The Salvation Army, a truly Christian organization, takes this to heart. (In January too, after the tinsel comes down.)

There are many ways of "keeping Christ in Christmas." The Salvation Army's tenacious, loving and efficient work in His name is certainly one of them.

WE ARE informed by Mrs. Barbara Hoepfl of Church Women United that "The Golden Greats," the record described enthusiastically in this space two weeks ago, has been selling rapidly. And why not, with gems from such topnotch musical artists at the ridiculous price of $1. The Columbia record was arranged by all concerned for the benefit of The American Freedom From Hunger Foundation, a church-backed campaign to help people to help themselves. There are still some available at the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, 1542 E. Seventh St., or through Mrs. Hoepfl. Really a great gift (and there's no giveaway price listed on the record).

IT'S DEFINITE. Dates were set this week for the 1969 Southern California Billy Graham Crusade at Anaheim Stadium. It should be a lulu. The 10-days, worked out by the city of Anaheim, the Angels (baseball variety), and the Crusade committee, will begin Friday night, Sept. 26 and end Sunday afternoon, Oct. 5. Intensive organization is already under way, with 1,000 ministers expected to work with the Ministers Council alone. Other committees are being formed, including a youth-college council, laymen, women, finance, prayer, ushers, counseling and follow up. Those wishing to volunteer their services may write to the Billy Graham Crusade at Anaheim Stadium, where Rev. Harry B. Williams of the Graham team has already set up offices.

THE NATIONAL Council of Catholic Women is making nationwide distribution of an ecumenical kit for children. It figures that kids are born without prejudices, and are more ready than adults for the message that "we are all children of one God."

The kits contain factual information about the beliefs and practices of Baptists, Methodists, Friends, Mormons, Jews and other religious groups that a Catholic child may encounter in a heterogeneous American neighborhood. They also offer guidelines to parents and teachers on how to teach children to respect people of other faiths while maintaining their own faith.

BAPTIST PRESS reports an interesting tidbit from Georgia. The governor, Lester Maddox, who earlier this year appointed an official of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board to a special citizens' study commission on the state's penal system, has now attacked his appointee after reading a "critical subcommittee report."

Maddox appeared before the commission to argue against the report, and loudly called the Baptist leader, T. Edwin Carter, a liar. The payoff is that the Commission then gave Carter a unanimous vote of confidence as "a truthful person."

In a press conference the next day, Carter said he "refused to dignify such a charge (the Maddox accusation) by replying to it" and got back to the issue, which he described as "Georgia can and must have a better prison system. But the political element must be replaced by concerned and knowledgeable people."

Methodists Hire

Folk-Singing Duo

The Methodist Board of Evangelism has hired two folk singers as full-time members of its staff.

The folk singing team of Tom Page and Jim Moore — billed as "Dust and Ashes" — will do their thing at church meetings and student gatherings. Their services will be available to other denominations as well as to Methodist groups.

Page and Moore are committed young Christians who believe that "the contemporary folk song is the medium which most adequately communicates the eternal truths of God to today's teen-agers and young adults."

Colorful 1st Mass at Cyprian's

Following a colorful symbolic procession by the parish organizations from the old church, the first Mass in the new St. Cyprian's Catholic Church will be celebrated Sunday at 8:30 a.m. by Rev. Patrick O'Connor, the pastor.

Representative members of the Womens Parish Council, Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus, Teen Club, elementary school, Confraternity of Christian Doctrine and Scout units will bear vestments and other articles from the old church to the new, 850-seat edifice.

Music will be provided by the choir, and the sounds of authentic early Spanish California mariachi will be interpreted by Joe Castro and his group.

THE GRILLWORK through the church, at 4716 Clark Ave., represents the theme of the fisherman's nets, with early Christian symbols of fish and the cross in various sizes and forms. It is, explains assistant pastor Rev. Justin McCarthy, "a reminder that those who accept the faith are caught up in the net of God's love."

The baptismal font is in the front, between the two main entrances. Illuminated on the large stained glass window is the descent of the Holy Spirit, as symbolized by the figure of the dove, from whose cross-shaped beak comes a mass of glowing light. The win-

L.B. PASTOR'S MESSAGE Paraphrasing Lincoln Address for Christmas

Rev. Milton G. Gabrielson, pastor of Bay Shore Community Church, has written this article, entitled "The Past, Present and Future of Christmas," inspired by the Gettysburg Address.)

Nineteen hundred and some years ago our Saviour brought forth upon this earth a new way of life conceived in grace and mercy and dedicated to the fact that all men should love one another.

Now we are engaged in many battles, testing whether that noble faith or our obsession with the carnal and the material shall forever endure. It is altogether necessary and proper that this should be so.

The brave men, dead and living, who have struggled and who continue to struggle with temptation have found and will find strength in the transforming friendship of Jesus Christ.

The world will little note, nor long remember, how many have fought, but it can never forget what they struggled for.

It is for us the living, therefore, to here and now resolve to dedicate our lives to the fulfillment of the Gospel which those before us have thus far so nobly advanced.

It is for us to be here dedicated to the great task before us: that in our trials and temptations we be sober and watchful and worshipful, and that we seek help from Him who cares.

That we here highly resolve that all temptations can be met with the power of His love as revealed in a Child and that our faith, weak as it may be, may have a new surge of strength because of that Child of Bethlehem — the Jesus of Nazareth and the Christ of Eternity — and that each one of us, under God and with His blessing, shall begin now to truly love one another. — MILTON G. # Musty Manuscripts Shedding Light on Time of Jesus

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Like the gradual unfolding of a mystery story, fragmentary hints and clues today are being accumulated from musty manuscripts of the past to illuminate the times of Jesus.

"A steady stream of material is increasing our knowledge of that period," says Rev. Dr. Robert Northrup of New York Theological Seminary. "We can expect a tide of additional material soon."

The painstakingly slow but dramatic process has been going on for about 20 years now, since the big finds of ancient documents in the dunes of Egypt in 1946 and in caves beside the Dead Sea in 1947.

However, less than half of them have been deciphered and published so far, and work now is nearing completion on the rest.

"Not much has been told about what most of these other manuscripts contain," said Dr. Northrup, professor of New Testament literature and a research specialist on ancient writings of that era.

"We can anticipate their general nature from what we've already learned, but each is distinct, and some of them may provide information that will give us new, even fuller understanding."

Notably, however, despite premature assumptions that the contents might undermine Christian views of Jesus, scholars say that instead the results have given new weight to the New Testament accounts.

"It has helped to make even clearer the special value and authenticity to the gospel records," Dr. Northrup said, in a pre-Christmas summary of the findings about the age from which the celebration stems.

For instance, some gospel phraseology, especially in the Book of John, previously had caused many scholars to date it about a century after Jesus' death, but the usages now are found to have been common in his own day, indicating an earlier origin.

Consequently, there now is new, objective ground for considering all the gospel accounts, including

John, as having been produced within the span of the lifetimes of the apostles.

Of the seven leather-bound codexes or books found in Egypt, containing 49 tractates or writings, the dating of which varies in opinion from the 1st to the 4th century, Dr. Northrup said only five of the writings have been generally published so far, most of it abstract material.

But most of the others recently have been photographed, and now are in various stages of translation, with a surge of publication expected soon, he said. "We can only guess what they may contain," he added.

Of the Dead Sea scrolls, dated between 200 B.C. and 70 A.D., four volumes have been published so far, with six others still to be issued, which is expected within the next four years.

Besides detailed records about a separatist Jewish community, the Essenes, which lived in isolation beside the Dead Sea through Jesus' time, the documents also include all or parts of every Old Testament book except Esther, providing copies 1,000 years older than any available before.

"We now have a much more complete picture of the conditions both at the time Jesus lived and in the early period afterward," Dr. Northrup said.

"But the material also raises new questions and possibilities." Among those questions, he noted, is whether the immediate forerunner of Jesus, John the Baptist, or even Jesus himself, were at some point associated with the Qumron community, the Essenes, who left the scrolls.

"He didn't use Scripture to justify his authority, but claimed it within himself, saying the way people acted toward him was the decisive thing," Dr. Northrup said.

However, he noted that Jesus, in his sharp criticisms of various religious parties and sects of his day, never mentioned the Essenes, possibly "because, even though differing from them, he may have felt they were searching similar points of faith."

Evaluation of Pope Paul Sees Him Negating Work of Council

By EDWARD B. FISKE
N.Y. Times Service

When the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church concluded the Second Vatican Council three years ago, it was generally assumed that their accomplishment was at least two-fold: the updating of church teachings and the creating of new mechanisms for continued, peaceful change in the future.

Since then, however, Pope Paul VI has followed policies which have had the practical effect of undermining the council's work on both scores.

IN THE last six months, for instance, he has issued a credo of orthodoxy that is pre-conciliar in its doctrinal formulations, has warned against ecumenical "extremists," and, of course, sharply divided the church with his hard-line encyclical banning artificial contraception.

Recently came the latest attack. A commission of six cardinals, backed by the pontiff, demanded that the Dutch Catechism, a progressive statement of belief that is a best-seller among the Netherlands' five million Catholics, be modified to reflect Vatican-defined orthodoxy on at least 10 points, including its view of the eucharist and the biological virginity of Mary.

In an immediate response that had obviously been worked out in advance, Bernard Cardinal Alfrink, the primate of Holland, announced that the Dutch church would print the Vatican text in a supplement but could refuse to make the required changes in the text itself.

Three days later the pontiff used his regular weekly general audience to attack such dissent by both laymen and priests. His voice breaking with emotion, he asked the congregation in St. Peter's Basilica, "who speaks today of hell? This is not liked and not discussed. Everyone chooses the truths he likes."

The result, he continued, is that "faith disintegrates and with it that very community that is called the one and only church."

THE SIGNIFICANCE of this pattern of retrenchment does not rest in its theological conservatism. Pope John XXIII, who convened the Council, was probably more conservative than Paul VI on doctrinal matters, and caution on the part of a pontiff cannot of itself produce the divisions that are rippling through the Catholic Church at the present moment.

Rather, it lies in Pope Paul's temperament and view of the church. John had a faith in the people of God that allowed him to initiate a reform process with no idea of where it would lead but confidence that, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, the church would land on its feet.

Paul, on the other hand, has more protective instincts. Writing recently in the New Yorker, Xavier Rynne, the pseudonymous commentator on the council, put it this way: "John believed so firmly in the divine nature of the church that he was anxious for everybody to embrace it and share in it; Paul is so deeply aware of its divine nature that he is afraid it may be contaminated."

The result is that Paul, consciously or otherwise, has undercut the council's work in at least three ways.

First, he has severed virtually all outward ties between the Vatican and contemporary theological thought. A young theologian at Catholic University in Washington put his view of the Pope's theology bluntly: "If one of my students had turned in the encyclical on birth control, I would have flunked him for his theological reasoning alone."

Second, Pope Paul has virtually negated the concept of collegiality, or shared government in the church.

The Synod of Bishops, which met a year ago to advise the Pope, was severely restricted in the topics it could take up. His summary rejection of his own commission's recommendations on birth control without explicit reasons was the result of much agonized thought and might be considered by some courageous, but it was hardly in keeping with the spirit of the council.

FINALLY, Pope Paul has retreated into a monarchical style whose modification was one of the prime tasks of the council.

There is an irony to all this in that Pope Paul used to be accused of being a Hamlet who was unable to make up his mind on birth control and other issues.

Now he is moving forcefully and thoughtfully but in directions that are renting the seam of the church. If he has a tragic flaw, it is not that of Hamlet but of King Lear, who was unable to recognize loyalty in his children when he saw it.

Plaudits for 1st Methodists 'Place'

"The Place," a Friday night coffee house for young adults sponsored by First Methodist Church, is observing its third anniversary this Christmas season at 207 W. Sixth St.

It received the following tribute in the magazine "Abouttown."

"Have you ever been to the most unique coffee house in Long Beach? It features live professional entertainers of the folksinger type, exhibits of contemporary art, and a wide variety of coffees, teas, ciders, and pizzas. 'The Place' is open Friday nights year 'round, 8 'til midnight, and is run by a volunteer staff from the First Methodist Church.

"This coffee house is, in appearance, religiously neutral. It is this neutrality that makes it a safe place for both the volunteer worker and customer. Neither need feel ill at ease here. The informal atmosphere is enhanced by a large fireplace and subdued lighting. If you do not like to talk, you can play checkers or chess, paint a watercolor poster, thumb through a paperback, or quietly drink your coffee and enjoy the entertainers.

"The Place" was brewed late in 1965 and quickly became the showcase for aspiring folksingers. Many have already succeeded as members of groups such as the "Uncalled Four Shadybrooks," and "The Turnquist Remedy. The strong appeal of good talent and an 'open to the public' policy have

KOREAN KIDS' FAMED CHOIR COMING BACK

The famed World Vision Korean Children's Choir, now ranked in quality with some of the world's best known choirs, will appear in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium next Saturday, Dec. 28, as part of their fourth world tour.

Once tragic and needy figures themselves, the choir members fully appreciate what it means to be hungry, terrified and alone in a war-torn land. Therefore they have dedicated this tour particularly to helping the children of Vietnam.

The 40-member group was selected for musical talent from among the thousands of orphans and needy Korean children cared for by World Vision. They are trained at the World Vision Music Institute in Seoul, and some have already embarked upon music-centered careers.

Solos, instrumental numbers and special features will highlight the 8 p.m. program; among them, a number by "Peanuts," remembered as the tiny performer with the huge grim who had to be lifted to the microphone on the first tour. He's a regular size violin soloist now.

NOT 'PEACEKEEPING'

Peacemaking Yule Key-Council Head

(Following is the Christmas message of Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, sent to member churches.)

Christmas is not the feast of peacekeeping but of peacemaking. Christmas announces to all men that God became a poor man Himself to bring peace on earth, between man and Himself and man and his neighbor. God's peace is not cheap. It includes a judgment on all apathy, selfishness and sentimentality; it demonstrates that authentic peace comes only through costly love and self-sacrifice.

This year — as so often before — Christmas will be celebrated in the midst of wars as a feast of hope.

Not only wars violate peace. Injustice does too. Open violence of arms is not necessarily harder to bear than the crushing of human rights, or insecurity, or segregation, or hunger, or fear.

Peace can be violated by those who want to keep it at all costs, by those who have vested interests in preserving the world as it is, by those who resist or delay land reform, open housing, tax reform, freedom of speech and organization, changes in obsolete and useless structures.

Necessary change is often resisted with violence by such "peacekeepers." Let Christians celebrate Christmas by making peace.

And in this celebration of Christmas there is profound joy; there is a call to active participation in the divine work of peacemaking; there is a promise that all who heed this call shall be called sons of God.

Tells Baptists Revivals Are Not Right Way

A British Bible scholar has had the nerve to stand up before a convention of American Baptists and speak critically of revival meetings.

Revivals, said Dr. George Beasley-Murray, may be fine for people with religious backgrounds. "But how can they reach anyone who has nothing to revive?"

Vote Scheduled on Carson Bid for Sheriff Aid

From Our L.A. Bureau

The Board of Supervisors will vote Tuesday on a request by the City of Carson for the sheriff to handle traffic control and to provide crossing guards.

L. S. Hollinger, county chief administrative officer, noted the sheriff already enforces criminal laws in Carson.

The traffic control request requires approval of supervisors before it can be instituted.

If the board approves, a contract will be drawn and the city will reimburse the county for the cost of expanded services.

Slaying Suspects Returned

Two suspects were returned by air Friday from Las Cruces, N.M., to face prosecution for the murder of Virgil Howard, 44-year-old Torrance carpenter, fatally stabbed Dec. 10 in a Wilmington bar.

Joe Louis Garza, 25, and John Hugh Garden, 38, both carpenters, of Taft, Tex., were arrested by New Mexico State Police while reportedly fleeing from the crime.

Police had broadcast a description of the car in which Howard's attackers fled.

Detectives Joe H. Imel and Charles S. Hart said the stabbing climaxed an argument over an unpaid debt.

N.L. PICKS ITS MAN ... A.L. TALKS IT OVER Baseball Near Decision

CHICAGO (UPI)—The meeting to pick baseball's new commissioner recessed after almost seven hours of deliberation Friday night to permit American League club owners to caucus.

It was learned that the National League owners were settled on their choice and the American League's caucus presumably was to reach a counter proposal or to determine whether it could support the National League candidate.

Nine of the 12 teams in each league must favor a candidate for him to be elected.

It was likely the National League favored Chub Feeney, vice president of the San Francisco Giants, but there was no confirmation of this from the meeting.

The owners took nine ballots on six candidates before taking a dinner break which preceded their later deliberations.

THE CLUB representatives are attempting to choose a successor to commissioner William Eckert, whom they fired in San Francisco two weeks ago. Feeney and Mike Burke, president of the New York Yankees, were considered the leading candidates.

The owners, who were in session for five hours and 15 minutes before they took a dinner break, spent the first two hours and 45 minutes discussing what they believed should be the powers and duties of the commissioner.

Low Yawns Way Into UCLA's Record Book

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

As inevitable as a UCLA victory, Ferdinand Lewis Alcindor added his name to the Bruin basketball record book Friday night.

At 7:08 of the second half of the Bruins' game with Minnesota, Alcindor casually dropped in a field goal which made him UCLA's all-time leading scorer.

All told, Alcindor made 25 points as the Bruins walloped the Gophers, 90-51, before 12,266 fans at Pauley Pavilion.

Alcindor has now registered 1,695 points in 62 games as a Bruin, four more than Gail Goodrich of 1963-64-65 fame mustered in 89 contests.

Lew shrugged off the feat.

"It doesn't mean much to me," he said. "The game is more important.

We have to improve and win our other games."

The Bruins are doing all right the way it is.

They've now won their first four games of this season, 67 of their last 68, 42 in a row at Pauley and 20 in succession since the 71-69 stunner by Houston at the Astrodome last January.

Surprisingly, Minnesota elected to play Alcindor head-to-head, with 6-7 Larry Mikan given the unenviable task of trying to stop the 7-1½ Bruin center. Mikan performed creditably.

Lew, who came into the game with a tender foot, sat out more than 12 minutes of the game, as did most members of the starting five.

It mattered little. Coach John Wooden used 13 players and 10 made the scoring column. Next to Alcindor was guard Bill Sweck with 14.

Lynn Shackelford's basket six seconds after the tipoff launched the Bruins' drive. After 8½ minutes, UCLA's lead mounted to 12 points and by halftime the rout was complete, 46-29.

If the Gophers had any ideas of a comeback, they were quickly squelched as the Bruins rolled up 10 quick points for a 56-29 lead. UCLA outscored Minnesota, 23-4, over a nine-minute stretch of the second half.

Mikan, son of ABA commissioner and former NBA great George Mikan, scored 17 points to lead the Gophers.

Minnesota coach Bill Fitch poured on the praise for the Bruins.

"I saw films of our game with them last year (95-55 for UCLA) and this was almost a repeat of everything from that one," he said.

"We've played some other good teams but they haven't made us look that bad (22 turnovers)," Fitch pointed out. "You're 20 points down when you start against these guys. That big man is just too much."

Fitch noted something else that may have escaped Bruin fans in the era of Alcindor.

"UCLA is a very well-coached team, which a lot of people tend to overlook," he said. "I know there are many coaches, including myself, who could louse up that club."

"This Bruin team would be good without Alcindor," Wooden cited the "quickness and stability" contributed by veteran (Continued Page C-2, Col. 1)

... TO OPPONENTS, THAT IS VBK: 'Wilt Demoralizing'

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

While the Lakers laughed their way to an easy 133-101 win over the injury-plagued San Francisco Warriors Friday night, one significant fact stood out.

Wilt Chamberlain, the most powerful force in the NBA until this season, is beginning to play the kind of basketball that could make the Lakers an unbeatable team.

Ironically, perhaps, Chamberlain's scoring is virtually non-existent, but he has been so sensational on defense and blocking shots that no one seems to notice if he scores two points or 20.

The 275-pound giant tallied only five Friday, but what the statistics don't show is that he scared the Warriors out of numerous field goal tries in the key-hole area.

"Wilt is challenging the ball," says coach Bill van Breda Kolff, "and this is turning the game completely around. Wilt has the ability to demoralize the other team."

Chamberlain's performance should be rated only by the fact he is now doing something he didn't used to do, not by the fact it was against a strong team like San Francisco.

The Warriors, decimated by injuries, were a skeleton of their real selves Friday. Nate Thurmond and Clyde Lee, who represent 38 points and 37 rebounds, were not in the lineup.

While the Lakers have now won four in a row with an aggressive, ball-hawking style of play, plus Chamberlain's defense, the real test comes Sunday against Philadelphia, which makes its Forum debut.

The victory over San Francisco was so lopsided that no Laker starter played over 31 minutes. All laughed and fooled around in the last quarter as little Johnny Egan stirred up the 8,396 fans with his dazzling play.

Elgin Baylor led all scorers with 25 points and Jerry West netted 22. Egan made 19 of his 20 points in the second half and fed off for eight assists as the Laker fast-break turned a dull game into an exciting one.

San Francisco stayed within hailing distance, 51-41, at halftime, but the Lakers erupted for 42 points in the third quarter to blow the game apart, 93-68. On Tuesday, a similar 42-point third stanza ruined Cincinnati.

Seven Lakers scored in double figures, a high mark this season, and one of them was seldom-used Cliff Anderson, who had 11. Even Jay Carty had eight points.

Rudy LaRusso led the Warriors with 18 points, but it was hardly enough as the Bay Arenas suffered their ninth loss in the last 10 games. San

The Lakers, who are 23-10 overall and 14-3 at the Forum, received another strong effort from Keith Erickson, his fourth in a row.

The former UCLA all-America, just rounding into shape, has teamed with West to display the fastest four hands in the West. They stole nine passes Friday and forced numerous other ball-control errors.

Van Breda Kolff feels the West-Erickson ball.

Best Of All Second Best in Rich Pacing Classic

It was supposed to be a big farewell party for Best Of All Friday night at Hollywood Park in the $75,000 American Pacing Classic, but instead it was a party-crasher named Overcall who collected all the glory as he stormed home in the final strides for a half-length victory over the 2-5 favorite.

The win by Overcall, certainly the season's most stunning upset, was his fourth this year over Best Of All and ruined the latter's final career appearance.

Overcall, the 7-2 second choice, returned $9 even for his surprise triumph, but Best Of All created a $1,608.46 minus show pool. Meadow Elva was third.

Time for the mile and one-eighth was 2:15 3/5 over a track labelled "good."

Del Insko, who drove Overcall, said the victory actually was easier than he had expected. "I tried to gauge my move just right, because three weeks ago I got in front of Best Of All in mid-stretch and he came back on to beat me."

That was in the mile and one-quarter National Pacing Derby in New York.

"I really didn't set Overcall down until the eighth pole," continued Insko, "and he responded perfectly. We were in an ideal

Hiram Scott 49er Foe on Campus

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

To Cal State Long Beach coach Jerry Tarkanian, his team's best win is one that doesn't count.

That was the 70-63 overtime triumph over the Athletics in action, an AAU team, Thursday night in the Long Beach Arena. Games with AAU teams are not included in season records.

Tarkanian hopes that what he saw his team do in the final 25 minutes of the game can be maintained tonight when the 49ers host Hiram Scott College of Nebraska at 8 in the Cal State gym. There will be no prelin.

"I was really pleased with the way we played in the second half Thursday," Tarkanian admits. "We were in trouble and we worked harder. That's what makes a good team. That's what we have to do all the time."

The 49ers were down by 12 at halftime against a team that had worked patiently against the 49er zone the first half.

"The way they were working for a shot, I didn't think we would be able to make up 12 points," Tarkanian recalls. "But we really played our best defense of the year and forced mistakes."

WHAT Tarkanian would like his team to do tonight is play an entire game as well as it did a half Thursday night.

"It seems like we always open the game with someone out to lunch," the 49er boss means. "We have to play like we did the second half all the time to be as good as people are saying we are."

Tonight's opponent is relatively unknown. Located in Scottsbluff, Nebraska, the school is three years old. It was named after a well-known 19th century fur trapper.

The Scotts have won 46 games and lost 12 in their first three years of competition.

Led by guard Jim Van Schepen, who averaged 21.4 points per game last year, the Scotts hold wins over Northern State College of South Dakota and Pershing College.

They lost to Nevada Southern, 126-116 in Las Vegas Friday night.

49ER FOOTNOTES: Tarkanian was pleased with the play of guard Ray Grillon Thursday night. "He has been our most consistent performer all year," Tarkanian says. Grillon had 10 points and a season-high 10 assists. Dick Nelson, who had 12 points, had five assists and Shawn Johnson, who led all scorers with 21 points, had three excellent scoring passes. Sleepy Montgomery also played well, despite a pulled muscle. He, Grillon and Johnson teamed on the game's key basket. That came with 2:13 remaining in overtime and the 49ers ahead, 60-56. Shawn collected a Charger pass to Grillon, who broke away and attempted a difficult layup. Montgomery, trailing the play, headed Ray's missed shot on the fly and scored on a fantastic layup. That was the two points that forced the Chargers to begin fouling with a minute remaining in the ensuing free throws, three by Stevo, enable Cal State to preserve the win.

NOW MAKES 40 CENTS A WEEK

Jail Teaching Ali the Value of a Dollar

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Muhammad Ali, who earned a fortune as a fighter, says jail is teaching him to appreciate the value of a dollar.

Ali, currently serving a 10-day sentence for a 1967 traffic violation, has been working as a trusty in the kitchen of the Dade County Jail since Monday, the day he was locked up.

"Look what's going on here," he said Friday in an exclusive jail interview.

"They've got a million-dollar champion tied up working for 40 cents a week."

That's how much Ali — formerly Cassius Clay — will be paid for his kitchen work when he gets out Monday, two days before his sentence is finished. He and 50 other prisoners will receive the customary Christmas amnesty.

"I'm certainly going to appreciate the value of a dollar when I leave here," quipped Ali, who said he dries "2,200 cups a day and 2,200 spoons and 2,200 saucers."

He said his stint behind bars had opened his eyes in several different ways.

"All my money and fame can't get me through these," he said, reaching

Eastern Title Weather Blows in Brown Favor

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland weatherman came out in favor of the Browns Friday in their battle with Dallas for the Eastern Conference title in the National Football League by predicting light winds favorable for field goal kicking today.

The description of the winds as light — under 10 mph — would seem to give the Browns a slight edge in the game currently rated a toss-up or slightly in favor of the Cowboys.

If the game is close, and the field goal the ultimate weapon, Cleveland would seem to have the better chance with Don Cockroft than Dallas with Mike Clark. Cockroft made good on 18 of 24 field goal attempts during the regular season while Clark hit on 17 of 29.

The municipal stadium turf is covered by a tarp with heaters blowing hot air under it 24 hours a day. A Browns' spokesman said the field should be in "reasonably good shape."

The Cowboys worked out Friday afternoon along the sidelines at the stadium, where 80,000 are expected for the title game.

Browns' coach Blanton Collier has said he will start Charley Harraway at running back instead of Ernie Green and Jack Gregory at defensive end for Bill Glass.

Both Glass (rib injuries) and Green (stretched knee ligaments) are ready, however, and Collier said they will "see a lot of action."

Howard Hughes (the King) is Seen at Last

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

Is there really a Howard Hughes?

They aren't too sure around Las Vegas, but another is making the name known in a world where the only flashing lights are red.

Howard Duncan Hughes, better known as Howie, dwells amid Kings in the National Hockey League. It's not Camelot, but for Howie it will do.

"I'm getting lucky, I guess," he shrugged between snuffles Friday.

Going into tonight's 8 o'clock homecoming game against Philadelphia at the Forum, Hughes is the composite of all the Kings. At 5-9 and 180, he isn't the biggest King, but he isn't the smallest, either.

He isn't the fastest skater, nor the slowest, and he doesn't have the best shot, nor the worst.

What he does have is more goals than Bill Flett, supposedly the club's big goal scorer, and more assists than Eddie Joyal, the premium playmaker.

His eight goals and seven assists place him third in team scoring with 15 points, only two behind the leader, defenseman Bill White, and one behind Joyal.

Hughes, who plays right wing on a line with center Howie Menard and left wing Ted Irvine, played all 74 games last season but scored only nine goals. Few noticed, and for good reason.

"I really didn't play that much," he points out. "I appeared in 74 games but really played only about 20. I was just killing penalties or filling in for guys most of the time."

Hughes scored two goals on the Kings' four-game trip but also picked up a cold in Montreal.

"It's so blasted cold," he said, sniffing. "You walk in snow up to your ankles, and, living out here, you're not dressed for it."

No doubt about it, Howie prefers California to the East, especially Springfield, Mass., site of the Kings' farm club. After laboring seven seasons in the minors, mostly for Seattle and Vancouver in the Western League, Hughes finally made the NHL last season at the age of 28 when the Kings selected him ninth in the expansion draft.

He doesn't want to go back, although he feared he might recently.

"All of us took our turns sitting out," he says, "and I didn't like it. Maybe it does you some good, but I'd rather be in there playing."

At his size, Hughes notices one great difference in stepping up to the NHL.

"The hitting is a lot harder. You may get by one guy but then another guy is there to knock you on your backside. They play the man, not the puck."

Howie feels the Kings are growing up, too.

"Speaking for myself, I'm not as nervous when we play the old clubs now. You get to know what kind of moves they've got and how they shoot and you don't worry about it so much."

BLUE LINES: Philadelphia, which was in the middle of an 11-game winless slump the last time out West, is now on a three-game unbeaten streak. What's more, the Flyers' formerly punchless attack has scored 16 goals in those three games.

King coach Red Kelly says he was "happy with three points" for the four-game trip but is worried about a homecoming letdown tonight. The Kings will be playing without right wing Ron Anderson, who twisted his back banging the boards in the first period at Boston Thursday. Gerry Foley has been called up from Denver of the Western League to fill in. At 36, Foley becomes the oldest King. Besides Anderson's back and Hughes' cold, the Kings have a sick call that won't stop: Ted Irvine, Dale Rolfe, Bill Flett and Howie Menard all look a little off. Skip Krake has a charley horse, Bob Wall and goalie Wayne Rutledge have pulled groins; Doug Robinson has a bruised right wrist; Hank Cahan a bruised right foot; goalie Gerry Deslauriers' left ankle is still sore, and Jimmy Peller continues to play with a broken leg. Same here, nobody seems to have the Hong Kong flu.

J. PAUL AUSTIN, president of the Coca-Cola Company has been selected chairman of the newly formed tournament player division of the Professional Golfers Assn. of America.

THE MOBILE Economy Run, one of the auto industry's major events for over 30 years, will be discontinued in the United States.

SAN FRANCISCO'S Willie McCovey topped National League batters in slugging percentage (.545) and wound up fifth in total bases (285) during the 1968 season, according to figures released by the league Friday.

Billy Williams of the Cubs had the most total bases with 321.

THE $150,000 PGA Championship, canceled during the long-standing dispute with the break-away touring pros, was reinstated Friday.

The 51st annual tournament will be played Aug. 14-17 at Dayton, Ohio.

I, P-T All City Water Polo Has 6 Lancers

CIF runnerup Lakewood placed six men on the 1968 All City high school water polo team as selected by the I, P-T's Board of Athletics.

Lancers selected to the team were Greg Vanley, Mark Le Gault, Ron Mal-lonee, Steve Genter, Rick Smith and goalie Randy Herbert.

Wilson's Mike Brouard and Brian Hughes; Phil Omdahl and Greg Grey from Millikan plus Bill Penn from Poly round out the 11-man team. All are seniors.

Each will receive an All City patch from the I, P-T.

HONORABLE MENTION

JOHNSON: Van Reed, Jim Solum, Jay Swelch.
LAKEWOOD: Rob Gough, Bob Newman.
MILLIKAN: Doug Fenberg, Ken Fegoli.

GRAEBNER TROUNCES PASARELL 2ND TIME

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI) — Veteran Clark Graebner virtually clinched a spot on the U.S. Davis Cup team Friday by downing teammate Charles Pasarell, 7-5, 6-3, in a practice match between the two rivals.

The victory was the New York tennis star's second this week over Pasarell and established Graebner as the top contender for the No. 2 singles spot on the U.S. team scheduled to meet Australia in the challenge round.

Graebner showed excellent form in taking the victory. It was his third impressive showing in workouts conducted by Captain Donald Dell to select the U.S. squad. Earlier in the week he also beat Stan Smith of Pasadena.

Dell expects to announce his squad this weekend. Lt. Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., is America's No. 1 singles player for the competition scheduled to begin Dec. 26. Smith and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles are the No. 1 U.S. doubles combination.

up to shake the bars on a kitchen window. "You don't appreciate being well until you go to a hospital and you don't appreciate being free until you go to jail. I get so cooped up I'm glad to pass through the lobby, just to see people walking around outside."

Ali was in high spirits despite the bars on the windows.

"He's a riot... he keeps us in stitches," said Capt. Pat Gallagher, chief of security at the jail.

Ali works from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. His jailers say he has worked hard and cheerfully.

"I ain't never Uncle Tommed," he said Friday.

"but I can say 'Yassuh Boss' and tap my shoes if I have to. The Uncle Toms lived longer in them slave days than the re-bells."

When he's not washing dishes Ali said he had been doing some writing and drawing pictures to pass the time.

2 Winners
by Cordero;
Ahead by 9

Associated Press

Angelo Cordero Jr. and Alvaro Pineda, who have been engaging in a coast-to-coast duel for the 1968 national jockey championship, will move into a head-to-head clash next week.

The challenger, Pineda, will make the big move against the leader, Cordero, by heading for Tropical Park in Florida as soon as the Bay Meadows meeting in California ends.

The Bay Meadows meeting winds up Monday and Pineda plans to ride at Tropical, where Cordero has been campaigning, on Tuesday and Wednesday.
Then he will fly back to California for the opening of Santa Anita Thursday.

Their struggle for the riding championship has been overshadowing competition at the two tracks recently, and figures to do so again today on the usual slim national program scheduled before Christmas.

The top race on today's program is the $50,000-added Bay Meadows Juvenile Championship in which Governor's Party heads a field of 10.
Governor's Party, who will get in with 113, has won four of five.

Also expected to be heavily backed in the 1-1-16-mile race in which Pine-da does not have a mount — are Fogged In and T.
V. Doubletalk.

Cordero rode two winners at Tropical Park Friday and regained a nine-race lead over Pineda had only one winner at Bay Meadows.

Cordero now has ridden
331 winners for the year to Pineda's 322.

Cordero, who was blanketed at Tropical on Thursday, rode seven horses on Friday's 10-race card and none of them finished worse than fourth.

Foot of Snow
Requires Chains

More than a foot of snow has fallen in some areas and man-made snow conditions are excellent at other resorts as of Friday.

Resorts offering man-made snow are Holiday
Hill, Rebel Ridge, Snow
Summit, Mt. Baldy, Snow
Forest, Mt. Waterman,
Blue Ridge, Green Valley,
Table Mountain and Snow Valley.

Snow chains are required.

Mt. Baldy—2 1/2 inches, sightseeing.
Mt. Waterman—6 1/2 inches, chairlift and sightseeing.
Snow Summit—10 1/2 inches, all facil-
ties in use.
Green Valley—4 1/2 inches, operating.
Holiday Hill—all facilities operating.
Cracker Ridge—4 1/2 inches, not operating.
Nixon Ridge—6 inches.

Simpson Honored
by Black Group

The Men of Tomorrow,
Inc., a black professional group, will hold a press conference and present their annual achievement award to O.J. Simpson, tonight at 7:30 at the President's Room of the Furniture Mart.

This award marks the first time Simpson has been honored by the black community group. Councilman Tom Bradley and Rhodes scholar Stan Sanders, formerly of Watts, also will be present.

PRISCILLA'S POP

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: The urge to get reestablished is paramount now. Your search is for some perfect system by which to live. Consistent efforts to find this will pay off to a surprising extent this year. Further formal studies are advocated. Today's natives often have almost a saintly selflessness or, if the individual horoscope is afflicted, the reverse.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This Sunday is rather pleasant with over-cuddly busy (and on his best behavior). You have the chance to improve your health. Enjoy hospitality this evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take your showing at church. Relief from weekday tensions comes out on tonight. Take your loved ones to an amusement area or set up a situation which intrigues them. Enjoy the simplest course of action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The expression of your faith is of top importance. Search out ways and means of self-improvement. Modulate late afternoon, then begin social rounds.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Share your holiday preparations. Patch up any dissensions. Make it a busy, socially active day.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Strive to be reasonable; for once there is more activity demanded of you than you feel ready to attempt. Try to free your own energies to go more fluently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Once you complete your share of communal activities, you have the option of getting in some solid, meaningful work on your own terms. Meditate for deeper quietude tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This happy Sunday your habits may unconsciously change for the better. Let yourself go; your inner nature will bring forth a truer expression of your potentials.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Rest and recover from the tensions that have been at large for so long. Stay active; make the rounds; find new people without demanding anything of them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Intellectual activity on your own can be very rewarding. Survey your financial setup. Romance beckons.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Get your letters prioritized. Push ahead on social plans. You may think it late, but this is the time when things become feasible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do something about your own needs. Visiting kin and old friends advance their affairs (and your freedom of action). Pursue romantic interests this evening; be diligent. Gather close associates tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Religious and charitable matters thrive and are very rewarding. Pursue personal goals.

Kazan Making Movie Out of His Best-Seller

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film makers dearly love the million-dollar novel. Whether the movie version is good ("Rosemary's Baby") or bad ("Valley of the Dolls"), it usually does fine business because of the "presold" audience of book readers.

Elia Kazan is unique among film makers by having created his own presold best-seller. His novel, "The Arrangement," proved an immense success, totaling sales of a million in hardcover and three million in paperback. It was a phenomenal achievement for a man who had never had a book published until he was in his 50s.

Why did "The Arrangement" sell so well? "It must have struck a note of empathy with a helluva lot of readers," the author analyzes. He admitted also that the publishers, Stein and Day, did a rousing job of promotion and he himself hit the book-selling trail — "The first time I had gone out and sold anything, and the last time."

Now Kazan is deeply involved in bringing "The Arrangement" to life on film. He is producing and directing his own script, with Kirk Douglas, Deborah Kerr, Faye Dunaway and Richard Boone as stars.

"IT FEELS good," he said confidently between scenes at Warner Brothers-Seven Arts. "I think this can be an excellent picture, an important picture. And I don't always think that about projects I am involved in. Kirk Douglas is doing a fantastic job."

"Every day he comes in with new ideas to help the scenes. I myself am always changing the script; even though I wrote it, I treat it as though someone else had. Kirk and I discuss the scenes and where we disagree, we do it my way. But often I go along with his suggestions."

Douglas is the second star to be cast as the adulterous ad man, Eddie Anderson, born Evangelos Arness. Earlier this year Marlon Brando was set for the role.

"But as we got into the preparations, I noticed that Marlon was getting more and more distracted by his outside activities," said Kazan. "Then Martin Luther King was murdered and Marlon simply couldn't function. I suggested that he drop out of the picture, and he agreed."

The Brando drop-out postponed "The Arrangement" for six months, and Kazan feared he would have trouble re-establishing his zest for the project. But he used the recess to start another novel, and he found he was even more enthused about "The Arrangement" when he returned to it.

HE IS a man of vast enthusiasms, as the vitality of his films ("A Streetcar Named Desire," "Viva Zapata!," "On the Waterfront") attests. One thing bores him: suggestions that "The Arrangement" is autobiographical. "Look—I've had two very happy marriages," said the director, widower of Molly Kazan and now wed to actress Barbara Loden.

"Both have been wonderful women, so the marital situation certainly couldn't be about me. Actually many of the things are taken from the lives of friends of mine."

"THE Arrangement" is a story of self-disgust, of a man who dislikes what he is doing (advertising). I'm completely pleased with my work. I wanted to be a director since I was 14. I also wanted to be a writer—I used to write poetry at 14. So there's certainly no disgust involved in my life."

Kazan is immensely pleased with the arrangement of being complete boss of his film, without the need to plead with a producer or apologize to a writer. On the other hand, it was pointed out, he must take the total blame if "The Arrangement" fails.

BOOK REVIEWS

For Kids at Yuletide

The puzzled Christmas shopper will find that a book carefully selected for a child will be appreciated after the novelty toys have fallen apart, and possibly for many years after. Following are some charming new variations on Christmas themes, reviewed by E.P.H.

THE THIRTEEN DAYS OF YULE. Illustrated by Nonny Hogrogian. Crowell, $3.95.

Anthony Murray explains in an introduction that this merry Scottish version of "The Twelve Days of Christmas" may originally have been a circle dance, and became a fireside parlor game in the 19th century.

Miss Hogrogian's lively drawings reveal an exotic collection of birds, beasts, dancing maids and even three stalks of corn to tax the players' memory.

THE CHRISTMAS VISITORS. Retold and illustrated by Jeanette Winter. Pantheon, $3.50.

An eerie band of trolls is outwitted by a hunter and his white furry bear in league with a poor woodsman and his family, in this folktale from the mountain fastnesses of Norway. Sepia drawings emphasize the weird ugliness of the trolls. Fascinating for youngsters 5 to 8.

THE CHRISTMAS CUPBOARD. By Margo Fink. Funk & Wagnalls, $3.50.

Tastes and smells are basic to the pleasures of Christmas. The greens and fruits and spices and goodies that lead to these delights are introduced in appetizing prose and sketches. Festively bound in red on red.

More bright ideas for the children's Christmas: A VISIT FROM ST. NICHOLAS. By Clement C. Moore. Illustrated by Paul

Galdone. McGraw-Hill, $2.95.

JOE AND THE SNOW. By Tonie De Paola. Hawthorn, $4.25. Childlike adventure in imagination. 4 to 8 years.

THE ALPHABET BOOK. By Rodney Papp. Four Winds, $3.95. Brightest, most appealing alphabet book in years.

THE POP-UP BOOK OF LEFT AN RIGHT. A Learning Game for Children. Story by Albert G. Miller; design by Paul Taylor, illus., Dave Chambers. Random House, $1.95.

Some brilliantly illustrated songs and rhymes:

THE WALLOWING WINDOW BLIND. Illustrated by Harry Devlin. Van Nostrand, $3.95.

PAPA'S GOING TO BUY ME A MOCKINGBIRD. By Don Higgins. Seabury, $3.50.

WILLY O'DWYER JUMPED IN THE FIRE. By Beatrice Schenk De Regniers; illus., Beni Montresor. Atheneum, $4.50.

HUSH LITTLE BABY. Illustrated by Alike. Prentice-Hall, $4.25.

NO END OF NONSENSE. Translated from the German by Jack Prelutsky; illus., Wilfried Blecher. Macmillan, $3.95.

THE SCROOBIUS PIP. By Edward Lear. Completed by Ogden Nash. Illus., Nancy Ekholm Burkert. Harper, $3.95.

THINGS WE LIKE TO DO. By Evelyn M. Andre. Abingdon, $2.00. 2 to 6 years.

Old favorites in new dress:

ALICE'S ADVENTURES IN WONDERLAND AND THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS. By Lewis Carroll. Illustrated by Peter Newell. Tuttle, $7.50. Re-issue of an American-illustrated "Alice" that outraged English readers in 1901.

THE SELFISH GIANT. By Oscar Wilde; illus., Herbert Danska. Quist, $3.25. In blue and gold tones on black and white.

THE BREMEN TOWN MUSICIANS. By the Brothers Grimm. Illus., Paul Galdone. McGraw-Hill, $3.75.

THE LUCK CHILD. By the Brothers Grimm, retold by Gaynor Chapman. Atheneum, $4.50. Characters well-expressed in strong color illustrations.

LET'S FIGHT, AND OTHER RUSSIAN FABLES. By Sergei Mikhailov; translated by Guy Daniels; illus., Michael

Mehta, Pianist Barenboim Perform Brahms's Superbly

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

All-Brahms evenings can be a chore or they can be glorious. The all-Brahms concert Zubin Mehta offered as his final program before embarking on a year's leave from the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, Thursday and Friday in the Music Center Pavilion, was of the second variety.

It was, in all ways, a fittingly festive farewell for the Indian maestro, who programmed the D minor Piano Concerto and the First Symphony, who invited his good friend and colleague, Daniel Barenboim, to be soloist, and who then led his orchestra, with some surprisingly mellow interpretive touches and some also surprising spacious tempi, through an affecting performance.

To tell the whole truth, the C minor Symphony was mildly anti-climactic after the concerto, a condition one might try to explain in a number of ways.

The most reasonable explanation may be the pragmatic one: Barenboim's playing of the concerto — honest, direct, straightforward, cohesive, masculine, moving — left little room for dynamic or emotional expansion. And given this kind of performance, the First Concerto belongs anywhere but at the beginning of a concert; nothing can follow it.

IT WAS that successful, too, easily the finest playing we have heard the Argentine-born Israeli pianist (he is 26, five years older than Brahms was when he wrote the work) do, and probably the closest to definitive a performance of it this orchestra has played within a decade.

Everything fit and everything moved; no details impeded the music's progress. The climaxes were in place and overwhelmed as they ought; there was no lack of nuance or poetry, but preciosity never made an appearance. Barenboim achieved that rare blend of spontaneity and authority, and Mehta and the orchestra seemed, with momentary lapses, to share his insights. Yes, it was glorious.
